County youths to benefit

Secret Santa Fund is not restricted

By SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer
The Secret Santa Fund, Inc., has provided the spirit of Christmas for over 50,000 children in its 17 years of existence.

But what many people in this area do not realize is that the Secret Santa program is not restricted to just the Columbus region.

IN FACT, approximately 25 children from the Fayette County area will benefit from the fund this year and be treated to a Christmas party Dec. 17 in Columbus, according to Mrs. Jane Hyer, executive secretary of the Fayette County Children's Services Board.

Ms. Pat Cramer, WTVN-TV program manager and district coordinator for the Secret Santa program this year, said that the private corporation, which is located only in central Ohio and is headquartered in Columbus, provides toys and gifts through donations for between 2,000 and 4,000 children annually from approximately 800 families.

Also included in the program are five Christmas parties to be held for orphans from throughout the central Ohio area. This year, the program will treat between 500 and 600 children to lunch at the Sheraton Motor Hotel in downtown Columbus, a Christmas party and a distribution of gifts after converging at the WTVN television studio.

Mrs. Hyer said that all 18 children from the Fayette County Children's Home and possibly about seven other underprivileged children from the Fayette County area would be attending the function.

House leader eyes national sales tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man most likely to be running the House's tax-writing committee next year hints the income tax may need to be supplemented with a national sales tax.

Possible new taxes and final action on national health insurance were among ideas Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., outlined Thursday as he predicted "we're going to get a tax reform bill next year and it will be a good one."

Ullman is expected to take over the powerful post of chairman of the Ways and Means Committee from the hospitalized Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark. The Constitution requires that money bills originate in the House, and the committee is where they begin.

Despite widespread feeling to the contrary among veteran Congress-watchers, Ullman also said he expects this Congress to vote to increase oil industry taxes and make modest reductions in individual income taxes before ending its session this month.

At an informal news conference, Ullman suggested the basic tax system itself would be examined, and he indicated he thinks the nation depends too much on income taxes. And on issues involving the financing of any sweeping health insurance plan, he said, "I don't believe in payroll taxes... but we'd have to find some other financial mechanism. I think it would be a disaster to dip into general revenues."

Ullman added: "I think we've gone about as far as we can go on payroll taxes. It is regressive. There are a lot of taxpayers paying more payroll taxes than income taxes." However, he said he sees no across-the-board income tax cut.

Furthermore, he said he is "not a great believer in the surtax" as recently suggested by President Ford, because it would underscore "inequity of the income tax."

The income tax system, he argued, "creates some real budgetary problems. If we're trying to establish a more stable flow, then we're going to have to broaden the tax base" by coming up with an additional revenue source such as perhaps a "value added tax."

That's a national sales tax applied at every stage of the process from raw material to the consumer who ultimately pays it. In various forms, it has been adopted throughout Western Europe.

Whatever tax revision bill is put together, the goal is action by next July, he said.

Coal pact approval sends workers back into mines

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The nation's soft coal miners began returning to work today just hours after their leaders signed a new contract with the coal industry.

Hundreds of miners reported for work on the midnight to 8 a.m. shift this morning in southern West Virginia after shutting down 70 per cent of the country's coal production since their old contract expired on Nov. 12.

Most of the United Mine Workers union's 120,000 members, however, are not expected to be back on their jobs until Monday.

UMW President Arnold Miller, in announcing that the contract had been approved by 56 per cent of those voting, said the agreement would become effect at 12:01 a.m. today.

Immediately, officials of Consolidation Coal Corp., the nation's second largest producer, were on the phone with local UMW leaders. Soon afterwards, local union safety committees began inspecting the closed down mines so that production could resume at midnight. Other companies followed suit.

Most companies kept their mines at a work-ready condition during the walkout. Supervisors were at mine sites daily making sure pumps and fans were operating and conducting fireboss inspections on roofing support and electrical systems.

One union official said the miner's eagerness to return to work was because they wanted to receive at least one paycheck before the Christmas holidays.

There were threats that 4,400 mine construction workers covered under a separate UMW contract might prevent mines from reopening by putting pickets up at portals this morning.

But foremen at Eastern Associated Coal Co.'s two Kopperston mines in Wyoming County and New River Coal Co.'s Silte mine in Fayette County reported that only working miners showed up at midnight.

The union and the Association of Bituminous Contractors are continuing talks in Washington on a new contract for the construction workers, whose old pact also expired on Nov. 12.

The three-year agreement signed Thursday by Miller and the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn. provides miners with a 64 per cent increase in wages and benefits, with a 10 per cent pay boost the first year. The means that miners' pay scales will immediately rise from $42-$50 a day to $46-$55.

With 79,495 UMW members casting ballots, the final vote on the accord was 44,754 in favor to 34,741 against. It represents the first time in the union's 84-year history that rank-and-file miners have been given a direct vote in determining under what conditions they will work.

The coal-dependent steel and railroad industries greeted news of the new contract with caution. They said they were still wary because of the agreement's slim margin of approval

Highest in 13-year period

Unemployment rate spurts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate leaped to 6.5 per cent in November, its highest level in 13 years, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed Americans rose by 482,000 last month to a total of 5,979,000.

At the same time, total employment in the nation dropped by nearly 800,000 last month to 85.7 million, virtually wiping out the entire increase in the number of jobs over the past year.

Massive layoffs in the automobile industry and job losses in electrical equipment and textile industries and retail trade accounted for most of the job losses last month, the department said.

The unemployment rate has not exceeded 6 per cent since October 1961, when it hit 6.1 per cent.

The sharp rise in unemployment, a reflection of the nation's deepening recession, is expected to spur changes in Ford administration economic policies. It also is likely to speed congressional passage of new legislation to aid the unemployed.

A measure approved Thursday by the House Ways and Means Committee would provide an additional $1 billion in emergency jobless benefits over the next year.

The November unemployment figures were based on data gathered before the middle of the month. Thousands more workers have been laid off since then, in part due to slumping auto sales and the nationwide coal strike. This will push the jobless rate for December still higher.

This trend was indicated Thursday in the Labor Department's weekly report on unemployment insurance benefits. The report said the number of initial claims for jobless benefits increased by 81,600 during the week ending Nov. 23 and that 42 states reported higher volumes.

A year ago, 1,430,000 workers were receiving unemployment insurance benefits.

The November increase in the jobless rate represented the third monthly spurt in a row. After taking 10 months to rise to 5.4 per cent from last October's 3 1/2-year low of 4.8 per cent, the rate jumped to 5.8 per cent in September and then climbed an additional two-tenths of a per cent in October.

Chairman Alan Greenspan of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said earlier this week that industry layoffs, especially in the auto industry, were worse than anticipated.

He predicted that the unemployment rate will continue upward until it reaches "something over 7 per cent" in the third quarter of 1975.

Some economists predict a rate of 8 per cent by next summer, a level that has not been approached in the last 25 years.

President Ford indicated this week that he may shift economic policy from fighting inflation to fighting recession if economic output sags and unemployment continues its sharp rise.

Ford said a 6.5 per cent jobless rate "would be indicative of a very serious added deterioration" in the economy.

Ford has urged Congress to adopt his proposals that would provide additional public service jobs and extend unemployment benefits.

Water service still major concern

Jeff mayor delays resignation as two village officials quit

JEFFERSONVILLE — Although Jeffersonville Mayor Donald M. Morrow had planned to tender his resignation at Wednesday's council meeting, he delayed the action when two other village officials submitted their resignations.

Early in the meeting Council member Larry Cook and his wife, Marlene, who serves as village treasurer, submitted their resignations to the council effective Dec. 31. The couple explained that personal commitments would make it impossible for them to attend council meetings after the first of the year.

Morrow had planned to resign immediately but reconsidered when he learned of the Cooks' resignations. If the mayor had resigned, the president of council would become the interim mayor, leaving a vacancy on the council. Since Cook's seat would also be vacant, it would be difficult to consistently have a quorum at the meetings. Therefore, Morrow postponed the resignation but stated that he intended to resign as soon as possible.

Appointed superintendent of the East Clinton School District in October, 1973, Morrow said his responsibilities to the district were becoming more demanding and that he was no longer able to give the position as mayor the amount of time it deserves.

He further explained that he feels it is the duty of a superintendent to live in the school district committed to his care. He has, therefore, sold his home in Jeffersonville and will be moving to Clinton County in the near future.

He has served as village mayor since 1960, and was formerly principal of Jeffersonville High School. He once taught at Miami Trace High School and has served as principal of Fairfield (Leesburg) and East Clinton high schools.

WATER SERVICE continues to be a major concern for Jeffersonville residents. The village system has been barely able to supply the needs of its residents and water pressure has been consistently low.

The two wells which are currently in operation provide approximately 70,000 gallons of water per day. However, area residents are using 65,000 to 70,000 gallons. Three new wells have been drilled during the past three years, but none were satisfactory, and they are not being used. The council will have to decide whether to attempt another well or to pump all three of the dormant

Colson testimony harmful to Watergate defendants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody wanted to vouch for Charles W. Colson's credibility as he testified in the Watergate cover-up trial. Not old rival John N. Mitchell. Not H. R. Haldeman or John D. Ehrlichman, his former White House associates.

They had good reason. For on his first day on the witness stand Thursday, Colson told of:

—His early suspicions about Mitchell's role in Watergate and of carrying them to then President Richard M. Nixon.

—Haldeman's unconcern about John W. Dean III's role in the planning meetings that triggered the Watergate break-in and Haldeman's rationalization about the money paid later to those charged with the burglary.

—Ehrlichman's sending him to reassure E. Howard Hunt Jr. that he had a friend in the White House at a time when the edgy and depressed Hunt was pushing for money and bargaining to stay out of jail.

After hearing what Colson had to say, chief government prosecutor James F. Nease quipped to Ehrlichman's lawyer, William S. Frates:

"If you're gonna call more witnesses like that, we'll take them all."

Frates had summoned Colson from a federal prison cell in Alabama, where he is serving a 1-3 year term for obstruction of justice in the Ellsberg case, to testify about one specific point.

But Frates refused to vouch for Colson, as lawyers usually do for their own witnesses. He was adopted as a court witness, making him fair game for cross examination by all sides.

The jury was informed of that by the judge and by every lawyer who questioned the witness.

Colson said two conversations with Mitchell made him suspicious.

One was a few days before the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic headquarters. Colson said he was talking with Mitchell about meetings that were being held at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York between Dwayne O. Andreas, a major contributor to both parties, and Hubert H. Humphrey.

"Mitchell said at that date, with a half smile, 'Tell me what room they are in and I'll tell you what's being said,'" Colson testified.

Colson said "what really put the capper on it as far as I was concerned" was learning about the meetings in Mitchell's office where G. Gordon Liddy's political espionage plans were discussed. "It led me to go to the President and say I fear Mitchell is involved and should step forward."

Kroger stew suspected of botulism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 24,000 cans of beef stew sold under the Kroger supermarket chain label are being recalled voluntarily by the company.

Kroger announced the recall when U.S. Agriculture Department officials identified a can of Krog stew as the source of food poisoning which killed a Georgia woman Sunday.

The stew is suspected of being contaminated with botulism bacteria.

Killed was Mrs. Cleo Harris, 79, of Griffin. A relative, Mrs. Mary Bevel, 73, who also ate the stew, is in Emory Hospital in Atlanta, officials said.

A Kroger spokesman at company headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, said the company is recalling the stew as a precaution. He said the botulism was suspected in only one can of stew out of a 24,000 lot processed last July 11.

The stew was processed by Krey Packing Co., of Jackson, Tenn. for Kroger, officials said. Krey has also initiated recalls of the product.

"Consumers having this brand of beef stew ... should return it to the market where purchased," officials said. "Under no circumstances should the cans be opened and tasted."

Kroger officials said the stew is in 24-ounce cans which can be identified by the code, "EST. 712 192 S4" embossed in the lids.

Pie in the face not an assault?

PORT HUENEME, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Soupy Sales, a self-proclaimed expert on piethrowing, says a pie-sliding Seabee didn't commit assault and battery because a pie-in-the-face "is always a very funny incident."

Sales testified Thursday at the special court-martial of Leon Louie, 19, of Fresno, Calif., who is charged with assault and battery for throwing a chocolate cream pie at his superior officer, Lt. (j.g.) Timothy Curtin.

After Sales' testimony, Curtin replied, "I have never been fond of slapstick comedy. Nor have I ever cared for the performances of Mr. Sales."

Ohio jobless funds reported adequate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The administrator of Ohio's Bureau of Employment Services says state unemployment compensation funds are adequate, despite the increasing number of Ohioans filing for unemployment benefits.

William E. Garnes said, "We could safely get through two years of anything we could anticipate," Garnes said. "If the recession or depression, whatever you call it, continues beyond that, we could experience difficulty."

In recent weeks, thousands of unemployed persons in Ohio have filed for benefits for the first time. Last week alone, the bureau had 28,000 new claimants and 117,000 continuing claims.

In October, the state unemployment rate was 4.5 per cent, or an estimated 213,000 of the 4,762,000 civilian labor force.

With 32,000 Ohio workers laid off or furloughed in the past two months due to the effects of a general production slump, declining sales in the car and major appliance industries, and cutbacks in fuel supplies available, unemployment benefits are increasingly important to families as the sole way to pay bills.

And trends indicate more persons will be out of work before the nationwide economic slump is over, with the state unemployment rate reaching as high as 5.5 per cent by the start of the new year.

However, Garnes said, "If we level off at 6 per cent for two years we're in pretty good shape. If we go beyond that it will be sooner before we have to do something with the fund."

As of Oct. 31, the state had more than $776 million in its unemployment fund, said William Papier, director of research and statistics in the bureau.

About 80 per cent of Ohio's labor force is eligible for unemployment benefits, Papier said.

"We need to dispel the notion that you come in and say 'where's my money,'" Papier said.

To be eligible, a worker must have been employed 30 or more weeks in the preceding year by an employer subject to the state law, have earned an average of $20 weekly, and be available for work, Papier said. Workers involved in labor disputes, discharged for cause, or quitting voluntarily, are not eligible to draw benefits, he added.

The Ohio law has an automatic escalator clause, Papier said, which raises benefits in the calendar year following any increases in the average weekly wage scale.

Anyone who files for compensation Jan. 3 will be receiving increased benefits, Papier said. An eligible claimant with no dependents who has averaged at least $162 weekly in the previous year will receive the maximum benefits of $82 a week for up to 26 weeks, Papier said.

A claimant with one dependent, averaging $189, will receive $100, he said. And at the top of the scale, a claimant with four or more dependents, averaging $218, will receive the ceiling of $121 weekly.

Overrides of Ford vetoes already near setting mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford in four months in office already has had more vetoes overridden by Congress than many of his predecessors.

In three instances, his vetoes got only a single supporting vote in the Senate.

His free use of the veto power, particularly when he obviously had no chance of being sustained by Congress, is upsetting to some Republicans in the Senate and the House.

"He is ill-served by disastrous defeats on vetoes," Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said recently. "I'm greatly disturbed by it."

House GOP leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona has called for Ford to consult more with congressional leaders before he vetoes bills.

Rhodes said the veto power is going to have to be used more selectively if the President is going to be sustained by Congress more often. Similar sentiments were voiced by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.

On Thursday, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford "does intend to cooperate with the Democratic Congress" and that Ford displayed "no irritation whatsoever" at Rhodes' criticism of his frequent vetoes.

Ford is up against a Democratic-controlled Congress, but so was former President Richard M. Nixon who, in his 5½ years in office had only 5 of his 25 vetoes overridden.

So far Ford has vetoed 15 bills. Congress made no attempt to override purchases the toys and gifts through private and group donations. The gifts are then individually wrapped for each child to match his or her age and sex to add a more personal touch. The fund receives names from all over the central Ohio region through churches, schools and community group referrals.

But the Secret Santa program is not immune from the problems of rising costs, and according to Ms. Cramer, in order to avoid cutting any corners in the program itself, the corporation is having to take alternate steps in combatting inflationary measures.

"We are trying to get more groups involved on a personal level and are having to go to more promotion," she said. She added that although the WTVN-TV station was not associated with the program except to promote it as a public service, it has planned to sponsor a Secret Santa promotion in front of the Statehouse Dec. 11 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. "in order that people may come down to donate money on the air and receive a little credit for their contributions," Ms. Cramer said.

As typical of all such programs this year, the number of families requesting aid from the Secret Santa Fund is growing at an astronomical rate.

The Fayette County Children's Services Board has only two caseworkers but they handle the cases of 132 children from the Fayette County Children's Home, foster homes, families in their own homes, adoptive children and children in other institutions, Mrs. Hyer said.

MS. CRAMER said there was no possible way to estimate the percentage increase in requests for aid this year with letters still flooding into the station but added, "There are particularly more needy families on the list this year. We just cannot receive enough donations to help all of them."

Because the Secret Santa Fund, Inc., cannot provide for all the needy families seeking relief, a Christmas Clearing House in Columbus (much like the Community Action Outreach program in Fayette County) has been referring names of needy families to various groups for help in order to furnish the most gifts to the largest number of deserving families.

Despite the tight money situations, Ms. Cramer was confident there was no danger of being forced to discontinue the Secret Santa Fund.

"The program will always continue because there will always be people who care," she said. "Maybe this year the program will help one needy family and next year, they will come back and say, 'Hey, look, you helped me last year when I needed it so here's something for someone else.'"

"It's this type of care that the whole Secret Santa program is based on."

Coal pact

and the possibility of wildcat striking from miners opposed to it.

Approximately 25,000 workers in the two industries were laid off because of the walkout. And spokesmen indicated it would be some time before all of them are back on the job.

The Penn Central and Norfolk & Western railroads said they would recall approximately 2,500 workers as they are needed. They don't expect trains to resume hauling coal until late next week when the mines are well back into full production.

U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer, said it will restart full production and call back the 18,000 workers it laid off on a week-by-week basis.

U.S. Steel owns several of the mines in southern West Virginia that planned to resume operations today.

Several strip mines employing about 4,000 UMW members in eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia were also scheduled to resume work today. But they are not expected to begin actual mining until next week.

Miners' reactions to the new agreement were mixed. "Some of them are happy, some of them are a little bit irritated because they didn't get everything that they thought they could get," said UMW District 6 vice president Arthur Nelms.

NEW YORK (AP) — The government's report of a big jump in unemployment last month helped drive stock market prices broadly lower again today. The pace of selling accelerated a bit.

The Southern Co. was the Big Board volume leader, down 1/4 at 9 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index declined .67 to 59.59.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was down .38 at 34.70.

Postal hike seen again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deficit-plagued U.S. Postal Service, which increased firstclass mail rates by two cents last March, probably will seek another boost that could take effect next July, Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen says.

Klassen said Thursday that a request for the new increase likely would be made to the Postal Rate Commission in March. The Postal Service faces an operating deficit of more than $400 million this year and could go into the red by twice that much in 1975, he said.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This weekend Bill Moyers takes off for a week of meetings in connection with "Bill Moyers' Foreign Report," a new public TV series on international affairs that will start Jan. 16.

For Moyers, 40, it's back to the weekly grind he left last spring when he folded his Emmy award-winning "Bill Moyers' Journal" after a three-season run on public TV to simply rest and think.

But the former White House press secretary says he has no hesitation about returning to the grind, which calls for him to put together 20 one-hour shows to be aired by the Public Broadcasting Service.

"I don't mind it as long as I'm doing something that was different from what I did the last three years," he said. "Television is a consuming medium and if you don't figure out how to constantly beat it, it will dictate to you."

His new attack, he says, calls for a mixture of taped interviews with various world figures, historians, philosophers and journalists and some documentaries about foreign countries such as Japan and Mexico.

And, he adds, he'll try to have four or five shows exhibiting what impressions foreign television newsmen and documentary-makers are giving of the United States to viewers in their own countries.

The weekly series will cost about $975,000, $500,000 of which comes from the German Marshall Fund, a Washington-based, American-run foundation set up in 1972 by the German government with a $10-million grant.

Moyers says the fund is dedicated to the memory of the late Gen. George Marshall and aims at improving international understanding.

The Corporation for Public Broadcasting is kicking in $200,000, and IBM and the Ford Foundation $100,000 each, with another $75,000 coming from the Inter-American Foundation in Washington, D.C.

He said he decided to do the series after talks this summer at his Aspen, Colo., vacation retreat with Hartford Gunn, PBS president, and Benjamin Read, head of the German Marshall Fund.

He said he pondered their talks for a few days and came to the conclusion the show would be both a logical extension of his interest in international affairs and his previous work on public television.

Another major reason, he said, was a growing feeling that Americans have become increasingly preoccupied with Watergate and other domestic issues at a time the world has grown "increasingly interdependent, and I felt we needed to treat that subject."

Bargaining for life

Disclosures about Haile Selassie in recent times have irreparably tarnished the image of the Lion of Judah. Some 40 years ago he caught the world's imagination, and aroused widespread admiration, when he appealed to the League of Nations for help against an aggressive Italian dictatorship. Now he is deposed, discredited, held up to the world as the autocratic oppressor of Ethiopia's common people during his long reign as emperor.

The latest chapter in the saga of this patrician ruler concerns the sorry business of bargaining for his life with a fortune extorted from his people over a period of many years. The word now is that, having signed over a vast sum to the military junta, he will be allowed to live out his few remaining years.

If such a bargain has indeed been struck, Selassie is the gainer. Even at his advanced age - perhaps even all the more so at his age - almost anything is worth relinquishing for a little more life. Still, the old emperor's final time among the living will in some ways be a hard time to bear - a time of ignominy after decades of almost absolute power, a time of sad memories of days when as emperor he ruled without question.

Haile Selassie can be seen, now, as one who did not do as much as he might have to raise his people from the morass of poverty and social injustice that engulfed them. All the same, we feel a little sorry for this old man with the proud hawk face who is now so utterly brought down to the dust.

THESE DAYS . . . By John Chamberlain

Concerned by our presumptions

When President John F. Kennedy informed the Soviets that the U.S. would not tolerate the off-loading of atomic weapons in Cuba, it was, in the measured description of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation in which Khrushchev blinked first.

Now President Ford is faced with another eyeball-to-eyeball situation. The question this time is which one of the world's two great superpowers can be forced, through intimidation, into betraying a "client" ally in the Middle East?

The new confrontation might not be quite as unnerving as the Kennedy-Khrushchev eyeball-to-eyeball missile crisis if it were not for one thing. The animosities that have been heating up in the Middle East have reached such savage intensity that diplomatic restraints on the Arabs and Israelis could be ruptured in spite of any U.S.-Soviet wish to prolong detente.

What does the Palestinian leader

Yasir Arafat care about detente? His cocky demeanor at the UN, where he presented a take-it-or-leave-it demand for a "democratic" Palestinian state in which the Israelis would be outnumbered indicated that nothing which Kissinger could do would cause him to call off his guerrillas.

The shoot-out in Beit Shean, 15 miles south of the Sea of Galilee, was a horrifying display of unmitigated ferocity on both sides. It was Yasir Arafat's terrorists who provoked it even as President Ford was on his way to a Far East parley with Brezhnev in Vladivostok.

The eye-for-an-eye and tooth-for-a-tooth psychology that now grips both sides in the Middle East means that neither of the two superpowers can let a "client" down without risking a quick and exultant resort to open warfare on the part of the nation that gets the break.

How can Kissinger defuse a situation of this sort? If he can do it, he will indeed be a wonder worker.

This column does not subscribe to conspiracy theories. But conspiracies are unnecessary when ideological tides are running. Yasir Arafat is now riding high because all of the liberal presumptions of the past 30 years have operated to weaken the West at the precise moment that a strong united front for enforcing peace is needed. With or without a conspiracy, things couldn't have broken better for the Communists.

Look at the bewildering series of events that have flowed from liberal presumptions in the past few years. They have culminated in the energy crisis. The British are on the verge of cashing in on their share of the North Sea oil discoveries. Given three or four more years and they will be free of dependence on their coal miners' good will. But the Communists in the coal miners' union called for their debilitating strike last winter at the very moment the Arab powers were exulting over the Western world's vulnerability to the "oil weapon."

I'm sure it wasn't planned that way. But the liberal presumption that union demands are always sacrosanct made it happen.

In the U.S., the liberal presumption that ecology must come before economics kept the Alaska pipeline from being built for six long years. Even now we would lack U.S.-owned tankers to transport the oil from Valdez in Alaska to Seattle if the pipeline were ready. Our maritime unions have seen to it that the law would prevent any foreign-owned or foreign-built tanker from transporting oil from one bit of U.S. coastal territory to another. And where is the liberal who would vote an exception to the rule in the matter of bringing oil from the 49th state to any port in the "lower 48"?

The West is the prisoner of its liberal presumptions. Meanwhile the Arabs have Western Europe at their mercy for energy. The only thing that can maintain the precarious status quo in the Middle East is the U.S. government's will to send a tank or a plane to Israel for every tank and plane the Soviets unload at a Syrian or Egyptian port.

Would the U.S. blink first if the Arabs were to renew the oil embargo? I'd like to say no, but if France, Britain, Italy, West Germany and some of the smaller West European powers begin to freeze in a cold winter, what would Jerry Ford do?

Mothers quickly work outside

NEW YORK (AP) — Millington F. McCloy, an executive of a personnel-search firm, worked late on a Friday, had her baby on Saturday, and was on the phone from her hospital bed with her clients on Monday. About two months later, she was back in her Park Avenue office and little Daniel was at home with a baby-sitter.

Whether they're dedicated to career, forced by economic necessity, or compelled by sheer restlessness, more and more new mothers are returning to work within weeks of their baby's arrival.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, in March 1974, there were 7,977,000 mothers with children under the age of 3. Of that group, 32.4 per cent of the mothers were in the labor force, up from 30.2 per cent in 1973 and 21.8 per cent in 1964.

Despite continuing debate about a mother's role and importance in successful infant rearing and many company policies allowing up to one year maternity leave, these women have willingly and in some cases eagerly opted to push pencils instead of baby carriages.

Though private, professional baby-sitters are expensive, the mothers say it's worth the $80 or more a week to keep up with their careers as well as to ease any lingering anxieties about their baby's welfare.

Some mothers working in lower-paying jobs have no choice but to place their children in day care centers.

However, there are hardly enough such facilities available.

As an assistant vice-president of Handy Associates, Mrs. Millington "Millie" McCloy was well able to afford a $30 a day nurse for Daniel, now 5 months old. She said she wouldn't be comfortable in the role of a full-time mother and housewife.

"I have always been very committed to my career and it simply would not have been to my advantage to drop out and care for a baby," said Mrs. McCloy. "I've always been able to keep a lot of balls in the air. Even though one has to make sacrifices, I was determined to combine both worlds."

But sometimes, mothering during office hours has presented some unique problems.

Even though she was back at work on a regular schedule, Mrs. McCloy wanted her baby to have mother's milk. It was too difficult to go all the way home at lunchtime. So while her male counterparts socialized with martinis Mrs. McCloy excused herself, collected the milk from her breasts in a glass, and asked the astonished waiters for a dish of ice so the milk would keep until she could take it home to Daniel.

how 'bout "Hi y'all"?

DEAR ABBY: The idea of eliminating all salutations in business letters in order to do away with the sexist "Dear Sir," has provoked me to write.

I propose, "Dear Y'all." It's friendly, all-inclusive, personal, impersonal, masculine, feminine and in between. A less formal "Hi, Y'all" might also be considered.

FRIENDLY IN DALLAS
DEAR FRIENDLY: Y'all's entitled to Y'all's opinion. But I doubt that it will play in Peoria.

DEAR ABBY: Our son Cliff, is 22. He's seeing a woman who is 32. She is twice divorced, has one child with her last mate and two (ages 10 and 12) with her first.

She's a cocktail waitress in a private club. I've never met her so all I have to go on is her track record and the fact that she's ten years older than Cliff.

This woman appears to be chasing our son. She met him when she and a girl friend went to the night club where he was performing. She has called here several times trying to locate him. My husband and I are terribly upset to think that he may have an interest in her.

How can we discourage Cliff from seeing her? How can we let our son know that if this woman were thinking of his best interests, she would leave him alone?

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your son is over 21, and there is nothing you can do. Any suggestions from you concerning this woman would be viewed by your son as meddling. Further, and attempts on your part to "rescue" your son from her would only drive them closer together. The word from here is cool it, Mother.

DEAR ABBY: Since I am a pastor with 43 years experience, I'd like to offer this suggestion to the young, inexperienced minister who didn't know how to handle a very bold married woman in his congregation who had designs on him:

Whenever I noticed a romantic twinkle in the eye of a woman in my congregation, I always checked to make sure it wasn't caused by a reflection from the gleam in my own.

The Rev. Walter Cowen
Nanticoke, Pa.

DEAR REVEREND: Beautiful! Many a young, inexperienced pastor would do well to take a page out of your diary.

DEAR ABBY: I have touchy problem. A friend of mine has four children. One is married, two are away at college and one is in an institution. (I understand he was severely brain-damaged at birth and will probably live out his years in that institution.)

When I talk with my friend, would I be out of line to ask how the child in the institution is? I always ask about the others.

TOUCHY PROBLEM

DEAR TOUCHY: If your friend never mentions the child who is institutionalized, don't you mention him. And the same advice holds for friends who have a child in a correctional institution, or is living with someone. A good rule to follow is: Be kind. Don't bring up anything that might make a friend uncomfortable.

Today In History

Today is Friday, Dec. 6, the 340th day of 1974. There are 25 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, President Franklin Roosevelt made a personal appeal for peace to Emperor Hirohito of Japan. The Pearl Harbor attack came the next day.

On this date—
In 1847, Abraham Lincoln took his seat as a U.S. Representative from Illinois.

In 1889, the President of the Civil War Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, died.

In 1917, some 1,600 persons were killed in a collision between a Belgian ammunition ship and a French ammunition ship at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

In 1918, Allied troops occupied Cologne, Germany in the First World War.

In 1943, during World War II, the Soviets were informed that Dwight Eisenhower had been picked to command the Allied invasion of Europe.

In 1959, a death toll of more than 300 was reported after the bursting of a dam and a flood at the French Riviera town of Frejus.

Ten years ago: British Prime Minister Harold Wilson was in Washington for talks with President Lyndon Johnson on Allied nuclear defense.

Five years ago: Israel exchanged 58 Egyptian prisoners for two Israeli pilots after complicated negotiations.

One year ago: Gerald Ford was sworn in as the 40th American Vice President.

Today's birthdays: Former football coach Lou Little is 81.

Thought for today: You take all the experience and judgment of men over 50 out of the world, and there wouldn't be enough left to run it — Henry Ford, 1863-1947.

Sevrukas, 34, 5 feet 8, weighed 178 when he started his fast in Rome, Italy, 23 days ago, surviving only on water. He has lost 32 pounds and now is down to a thin, weakened 146.

He plans to continue his fast until the end of December, although at the insistence of a doctor, he now has started taking some citrus juice, and friends have expressed anxiety about his declining condition.

A Lithuanian, who taught in the Academy of Science at Vilnius and at an engineering institute there, he holds degrees in literature and philosophy. He secured an exit visa last June to go to Israel, though the International Rescue Committee, but went to Rome instead.

There, in the midst of the World Food Conference, he started his hunger strike, protesting suppression of religious teaching in Lithuania and removal of religious personnel from churches.

He came to New York in mid-November, and is staying with Lithuanian friends in Jamaica, Queens.

"Yes, I am Marxist and atheist, but the Catholic Church in Lithuania is connected ideologically with Lithuanian nationalism and freedom of thought for all," he said through an interpreter.

The Rev. Blahoslav S. Hruby, editor of Religion in Communist Dominated Areas, says documentation indicates more than 200 Christians presently are in Soviet detention, mostly for defying laws against conducting religious classes.

They include a leader of dissident Baptists, Georgi Vins, arrested last March and imprisoned in Kiev.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT D. LENTZ

Wedding in Utica, Mich., is announced here

Nuptial Mass was celebrated by Miss Nancy Ruth Meyers and Robert David Lentz in St. Lawrence Catholic Church in Utica, Mich., when they exchanged marriage vows recently with the Rev. Fr. Lawrence Nawrocki officiating.

Miss Meyers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Meyers of Utica, Mich., and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lentz of 219 E. Temple St.

Organ and vocal selections were "Ave Maria" and "Wedding Song" from Fiddler on the Roof.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of white satin with flowing skirt and sheer bodice. The long fitted sleeves were pointed at the wrists, and the bodice was fitted with a sweetheart neckline. The long flowing veil was caught to a headpiece of pearls. She wore a strand of pearls, and carried a cascade of white roses and miniature red rosebuds with baby's breath and leather leaf.

Miss Ruth Ann Meyers was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a long burgundy double knit gown with white trim at the scoop neckline, and short puffed sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of carnations and roses with burgundy streamers.

Don Lentz served as best man for his brother, and Steve Pettingill seated the wedding guests.

Mrs. Meyers, the bride's mother, chose a formal length turquoise knit dress with V-neckline and A-line skirt. The groom's mother, wore a long green dress and jacket ensemble of knit. Both mothers had corsages of white carnations and yellow rosebuds.

A reception and buffet dinner took place in the home of the bride's parents following the marriage ceremony. There were 75 guests.

Following a trip to Cumberland State Park, the new Mr. and Mrs. Lentz are residing in Muncie, Ind., where her husband is senior assistant manager of K-Mart in Muncie. Their address is 201 South Morrison Rd., Red Bud Village-Apt. 3B, 47304. Mr. Lentz is a 1967 Washington Senior High School graduate and 1971 graduate of Miami University, Oxford.

Attending the wedding were members of the Lentz family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lentz, Miss Marge Lentz of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lentz and daughter, Julie of Woodlawn, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Coakley and Jenny and Wayne of Grove City; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Lentz and children David and Leigh of Middletown.

Revamped House totally different

WASHINGTON (AP) "It won't be the same House."

Democratic congressmen sounded this theme with exultation or foreboding as they recessed a historic caucus Thursday and headed for their party's miniconvention in Kansas City.

Liberals were in the saddle and 75 well-organized Democratic newcomers provided the decisive margins in key votes during four intensive days of change-making that have altered the face of the House, one of the most tradition-bound elements of U.S. government.

The thrust of the change is clear: more power to the caucus of all Democratic members and to the central party leadership under the speaker; less power to committee chairmen accustomed to acting like feudal barons; more opportunities for freshmen and junior members; and more openness in the conduct of legislative business.

Many of these elements were involved in the changes affecting the Ways and Means Committee.

The Democratic members of Ways and Means have been the party's Committee on Committees, with the function of nominating other members for committee posts.

The reform caucus shifted the Committee on Committee function to the Democratic Policy and Steering Committee, which is made up half of the leadership and its appointees, half of caucus-elected members.

The caucus enlarged Ways and Means and opened the way to possible liberal control and an infusion of junior members.

The speaker has recently had much influence in naming members of the Rules Committee, which guards the door through which legislation passes to the House.

The caucus moved farther toward making this key committee a direct arm of the leadership. The speaker, not the Committee on Committees, is to nominate Democrats for the majority posts. The caucus retains the last say.

During 56th annual meeting

Countians determine Farm Bureau policies

Four representatives of the Fayette County Farm Bureau were selected to attend the 56th annual Ohio Farm Bureau Federation meeting recently in Columbus to serve as delegates for determining state policies.

Richard Carson, Dick Davidson, Wayne Hidy and Robert Owens (Landmark representative) were elected by the county Farm Bureau organization to act as members of the 296-member delegation, which determined business and policy matters at the state level for the 61,000 Ohio Farm Bureau member families.

The delegates resolved Farm Bureau policy concerning land use planning, international trade, establishment of a grain reserve, school financing, property taxes and the environment, according to Richard Carson, president of the local organization.

DURING THE meeting, the Fayette County Farm Bureau was recognized for its accomplishments during 1973 and awarded in six areas of membership, marketing, women's activities, youth, information and public affairs. Members responsible for the accomplishments were Richard Carson, Norman Scheiring, Mrs. Wayne Hidy, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hobbs, Mrs. Marion Waddle and John Peterson.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz received the support of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation for his advocacy of "a rational food policy and forthright information to the consuming public."

Ohio Farm Bureau Federation president Leonard Schnell said Butz was correct in supporting unregulated American grain exports and in opposing establishment of a large national grain reserve. "Agriculture exports are the only things keeping America's balance of trade afloat, the only commodities consistently earning foreign exchange," he said. "And stored grain reserves have forced farmers to accept artificially low prices for 20 years."

Farm Bureau youth from Fayette, Auglaize, Fairfield and Wayne Counties competed for top honors in the Farm Bureau Federation's "Spotlight on Safety" competition in the arts and crafts building at the Ohio Exposition Center.

The Fayette County safety skit, "Minibike Safety," demonstrated the proper way to operate minibikes. Participants were Steve Paisley, Cindy Davis, Maggie Camstra, Bret and Bart Taylor, Mike Sollars, Mary Wilson and advisors, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hobbs.

New Federal Land Bank office

Business news

Federal Land Bank sets formal opening Dec. 15

The new Federal Land Bank Association office at 402 E. Court St. has been completed at an estimated cost of $250,000 and is now preparing for an open house of its facilities Dec. 15.

According to Ron Ratliff, manager, the 3,000-square foot office building had been under construction since May 10 by the Great Oaks Construction Co., after the former office location at 420 E. Court St. became inadequate for expansions in office space, parking facilities, storage and personnel.

THE ONE-FLOOR structure has been constructed in the Williamsburg style design with a large 55 by 100 foot area for employee and customer parking. Included inside the office building are an executive office for Ratliff, a conference room for the board of directors, filing rooms, front reception area, three offices for Ratliff's assistants and a basement for storage of old aerial photos and soil maps.

The Federal Land Bank Association is a unique corporation in that it is entirely owned and operated by its member borrowers. There are 950 farmer-borrowers who use the land bank for long-term loans in Fayette, Clinton and Madison counties, all under the Washington C.H. land bank office.

The association, the largest lending institution in Fayette County, now has a volume of $44,000,000 outstanding, as compared to $17,000,000 eight years ago. It ranks first in volume of all national Land Bank Associations in the four-state district of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, Ratliff said.

In the four-state district, the 76 Federal Land Bank Associations include over 46,000 member borrowers with $1,300,000,000 outstanding.

Land bank loans must be secured by first mortgages on farm real estate, but loans are made for a variety of needs of the farm owners. Ratliff said the advantages to the farmers in using the Land Bank include a repayment period of up to 35 years as opposed to seven years with a Production Credit Association, and the large size of the loans that can be handled by the association. Most loans are repaid on annual installments in the same way many farmers receive their incomes.

The local Land Bank Association is managed by Ratliff who is directly responsible to and a board of directors, which are borrowers of the system. Five employees staff the local office.

Ratliff, 33, of Rt. 1, Greenfield, has been associated with the Federal Land Bank Association for 10 years, serving eight of those years as manager.

HE IS a graduate of Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky., with a bachelor of arts degree in industrial education and physical education, where he played football two years on an athletic scholarship after playing three years for Iowa State University.

Ratliff married his Frankfort High School sweetheart, Nancy Acton, and they now have three children, Lamar, 7, Mollie, 3 and Jill, 2.

Ratliff has been a member of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club's board of directors for three years, after being the youngest member ever taken into the club at the age of 24; is a member of the Mt. Pleasant Pisgah Church Board of Directors, the Ohio Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers, and the Buckskin Farm Bureau Council.

The open house is being planned for Dec. 15 from 2 until 4 p.m.

Rocky OK near certain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller has completed confirmation hearings and his nomination appears headed for certain congressional approval in the next two weeks.

His confirmation would complete a turnover from the Nixon-Agnew administration and leave the country for the first time with an unelected president and vice president.

Eastside sets holiday program

Eastside Elementary School will present a Christmas program at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Washington C. H. Middle School auditorium. Entitled "Everywhere... Christmas Tonight," the program will be presented by members of the first, second and third grade classes.

The show will feature traditional scenes of Christmas as it is celebrated in other parts of the world. Highlighting the program will be dancers in their colorful native dress and a brigade of "wooden soldiers."

Mrs. Wayne King will direct the program. Musical accompaniment will be provided by Mrs. Ralph Yerian and Miss Marcia Perry.

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited.

Heavy rain hits U.S. midsection

By The Associated Press
Rain spilled over the nation's mid-section from the Gulf Coast to the Great Lakes today and thunderstorms rumbled across parts of the South. Flash-flood watches were issued for sections of Texas and Arkansas. The National Weather Service said downpours up to 4 inches were possible in portions of those two states and northern Louisiana.

The rains tapered off to showers in areas north to the lower Great Lakes region. Light rain and snow fell in the central Rockies and west-central Plains. Dense fog blanketed parts of Oklahoma, South Dakota and Florida. Clear skies were the rule over most of the Far West, the Southeast, the Northeast and areas of the Midwest ahead of the advancing rain.

In the East, effects of last weekend's big snow persisted in Pennsylvania and Ohio. National Guardsmen from two units were activated to help the West Penn Power Co. repair fallen power lines in southwestern Pennsylvania. Up to 20,000 of the company's 125,000 customers remained without electricity late Thursday. Snow-clogged sidewalks in Akron, kept schools closed for a fifth day in that northern Ohio city. School officials assured students they would not have to make up the lost days next spring. Cold weather clung to the interior Northeast and parts of the South. Temperatures sank below zero in northern Maine overnight and readings in the 20s again extended well into the South. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 9 at Houlton, Maine, to 68 at McAllen, Tex.

Contingency plans still eyed by PUCO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's Public Utilities Commission wants to go ahead and map coal contingency plans despite the relief that came Thursday with settlement of the national coal miner's strike. John Ledingham, commission spokesman, conceded that the contract settlement took "some of the urgency" out of the situation. The settlement prompted a decision to defer a hearing on proposed voluntary conservation measures that were to have been taken by the state's electrical utilities had the strike continued. Representatives of the state's eight major electrical utilities did meet for the scheduled hearing Thursday to discuss ground rules that might be used when future shortages loom, Ledingham said. The hearing then recessed until a date to be announced later. "We're relieved by the settlement, but it didn't reduce our concern about future strikes and problems that could create shortages of coal," he said.

Last week, the commission announced a contingency plan to be followed by the utilities as their coal supplies dwindled in connection with a prolonged strike. It called for them to observe voluntary conservation when their supplies got down to 55 days, and set mandatory allocations and drastic actions, including intermittent power blackouts, when a utility's coal supply was reduced to 35 days.

Broiler chicken outlook better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broiler chicken producers, after losing heavily for many months because of soaring expenses, have no reason to crow yet but their situation may improve over the next six months or so, the Agriculture Department says.

But if some do begin making money again it will be because broiler production has been cut, at least until the crunch is over, and many operations have gone out of business.

Put another way, the department said Thursday in a broiler marketing report if producers had kept as many birds as they had earlier in 1974, they could expect prices during the second quarter of next year to improve very little.

As it looks now, however, broiler output next April, May and June will be about 15 per cent less than it was in the second quarter of this year. Consequently, if current projections are borne out, wholesale prices for dressed ready-to-eat broilers may average in the range of 44 to 46 cents a pound.

Officials said that if production had not been reduced the wholesale price next spring probably would be about 37 cents a pound, less than two cents more than the average of 35.3 in April-June this year, a level that caused severe financial losses.

A spokesman for the department's Agricultural Marketing Service said broiler prices only recently have matched costs of production. Although expenses are expected to continue increasing, the picture looks brighter through the first half of 1975 than it did last spring, he said.

Broiler prices depend not only on the supply of birds for market but on how much competing meat there is available for consumers.

One reason broiler prices slumped so badly last spring — down seven cents a pound from the second quarter of 1973—was because competing supplies of beef, pork and turkey were up sharply. Looking ahead to April-June next year, the report said pork output will be down 15 per cent from the second quarter of 1974 and that turkey production also will be less. Beef, however, is expected to be up 3 per cent from a year earlier.

C&SOE rate increase challenge filed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A challenge to a rate increase request by the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. was filed in Franklin County Common Pleas Court on Thursday by Raymond J. Leonard of Columbus. He also objects to a past increase.

Leonard, who said he would file a complaint with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, contends that cost adjustments set by the PUCO were not approved by the General Assembly or electricity customers.

Two Bucks make All-American

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Wood, Southern California's brilliant linebacker, was named to The Associated Press All-America college football team today for the third year in a row, while the Trojans, Oklahoma and Ohio State each had two players on the select squad.

The other repeaters were linebacker Rod Shoate of Oklahoma and defensive end Randy White of Maryland, winner of the Outland Trophy as the best lineman in the country. Shoate and White were named to the All-America team for the second time.

Wood was joined on the elite 1974 team by his Southern Cal teammate, running back Anthony Davis. The other representative from top-ranked Oklahoma is running back Joe Washington.

The third running back is Archie Griffin, Ohio State's Heisman Trophy winner. The other Ohio State player is offensive guard Steve Myers, who began the season as a center but switched positions when a broken hand made it impossible for him to snap the ball.

The All-American quarterback is Steve Bartkowski of California, who led the Golden Bears back to prominence and was the national passing leader. Bartkowski completed 182 of 325 passes for 2,580 yards and 12 touchdowns and was intercepted only seven times.

The receivers are big Dennie Cunningham, a 6-foot-5, 252-pound tight end from Clemson, and split end Pete Demmerle of Notre Dame.

Named to the interior line were tackles Craig Hertwig of Georgia, 6-8, 260, and Al Kreviss of Boston College, 6-5, 265; guards Ken Huff of North Carolina, 6-4, 255, and Ohio State's Myers, 6-2, 243, and center Rik Bonness of Nebraska, the midjet of the forward wall at 6-4, 221.

In addition to Wood, Shoate and White, the rest of the defensive unit consists of Alabama end Leroy Cook, tackles Doug English of Texas and Mike Hartenstein of Penn State, 275-pound middle guard Louie Kelcher of Southern Methodist, Auburn linebacker Ken Bernick and backs Dave Brown of Michigan, Pat Thomas of Texas A&M and John Provost of Holy Cross, the national leader in both interceptions and punt returns.

The AP team is selected on the basis of a player's college performance, not his pro potential.

Griffin, named the Heisman Trophy winner earlier in the week, led all running backs with 1,620 yards this season. He has rushed for more than 100 yards in 22 consecutive regular-season games — an all-time college record — plus the 1974 Rose Bowl.

East seeks third Shrine Bowl title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The East bids for its third straight victory over the West in the third annual All-Ohio Shrine Bowl football game Saturday in Ohio Stadium.

Kickoff time is 12:30 p.m. EST. Both sides appear to have fine passing attacks for the contest that matches the outstanding seniors from Ohio's colleges this season.

Every school in the state is represented except bowl bound Ohio State and Miami. Their players are prohibited from appearing in the game, whose proceeds go to the Shriners' Cincinnati Burns Institute.

The East won a year ago 8-6 and Kent State Coach Don James was an assistant mentor on the victorious team.

"From the talent on both teams," said James, the head coach for the East this year, "it might be a higher scoring game than we've had."

James will start slick-passing Mike Campbell of the University of Cincinnati at quarterback.

Dave Maurer of Wittenberg, the West's head coach, will counter with Dayton's Tom Vosberg. The West also has the advantage of Toledo wide receiver John Ross, who led the nation in catches this season.

The 29-man teams have been working out all week on Ohio Stadium's artificial turf preparing for the game. They wound up two-day drills Thursday before visting with children today in the Cincinnati Burns Institute.

The rosters:

West—Tony French, Bob Sagle, Muskingum; Denny Hammad, Dave Laubacker, Randy Perkins, Akron; Domenic Haynesworth, Oberlin; Rick Phillips, Findlay; John Quallen, Marietta; Mark Summers, Les Wojciechowski, Baldwin-Wallace, and Angelo Wilson, Hiram.

West—Jeff Ashcom, Denison; John Bradford, William Fowles, Fred Love, Central State; Brian Burby, Chip Visci, Ohio Wesleyan; Greg Arnold, Capital; Jim Clark, Defiance; Everett Collier, Bluffton; Marty Fanning, Heidelberg.

Lyons, Mike Nugent, Ohio University; Tom Vosberg, Greg Meter, Dayton; Nick Obrovac, Joe Russell, Hal Thomas, Bowling Green; Rod Ridgeway, Antone Strothers, Art Thomas, Wittenberg; Mike Theisen, Wilmington, and Don Thomas, Ohio Northern.

Grapplers to depend on youth

By LARRY WATTS

Record-Herald Sports Editor

"If the members of the team dedicate themselves to getting into the proper weight classes, this should be a good year for Miami Trace," predicted the Panthers' new wrestling coach Glen Jacobson.

Although Jacobson only has three seniors on the squad, the underclassmen possess a lot of experience. The performance of the Panthers this season will be resting mainly with the juniors and sophomores.

Seven letterman return this season. Of the seven lettermen, two are seniors, three are juniors and two are sophomores.

Heading the cast of returning lettermen is senior Don Dunton, who will be wrestling in the 175-pound class. Dunton carried a 10-6 record last season and was second in every tournament. Nine of his 10 victories were by pins and he holds the school record for the quickest pin in a match (14 seconds).

Junior Tom Eddleman lettered as a freshman, when he carried a 17-6 record. Eddleman is presently wrestling in the 126-pound class, but Jacobson is hoping to move him into the 119-pound class.

Kurt Klontz carried a 4-7-1 mark as a sophomore last season. He will be wrestling in the 138-pound weight class. Junior Jay Crummy, who is in the 167-pound class, carried a 9-9 slate last season. He was second in the Barnesville Tournament, fourth at the Chillicothe Invitational and third in the South Central Ohio League meet.

Bruce Fennig, who is a sophomore, finished 5-11 last season. He is presently wrestling in the 119-pound class, but Jacobson would prefer to have him at 112.

Sophomore Kirt Stuckey was 5-7 in his frosh season. He will be wrestling in the 145-pound class.

Senior Mark Moore is the only other letterman on the team. After carrying a record of 0-2 last year, Moore will be wrestling in the 185-pound class this season.

Jacobson says his team is working toward the SCOL and sectional tournament this season. The Panthers have never won a tournament as they enter their fifth year in the wrestling program.

Five of the grapplers placed in the sectional last season. Klontz, Fennig and Stuckey each took third place. Dunton and Williams finished fourth.

"We think interest in wrestling is growing at Miami Trace," reflected Richard Hill, who served as head coach of the wrestling team last year. Because he is also serving as assistant athletic director and assistant football coach, Hill has stepped down as head coach of the grapplers.

"Young men under our program seem to be working a lot harder," Hill continued. "There is more team effort than individual effort. Everyone is helping everyone else out."

Varsity wrestlers are determined by matches among the team members. If a varsity wrestler should lose in competition, one of the reserves may challenge him for his position.

"Many people do not realize this type of wrestling is not like that they see on television," Jacobson pointed out. "This is a sport for athletes of all sizes."

According to Jacobson, Circleville and Wilmington should be the favorites in the SCOL meet. Both teams have a lot of veterans returning.

"We have been stressing physical conditioning and hope to build our way up for the SCOL and sectional tournaments," the Panther mentor explained. "Although we lost our first match to Springfield Northeastern, we have been extremely pleased with the progress made by the team this season."

Jacobson also said he would like to see more fan support at the matches. The Panthers next meet will be the Franklin Heights Invitational on Dec. 14. The first home match will be on Jan. 16 with Hillsboro.

Wolfpack enjoys 144-88 win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

For a team that didn't try very hard, North Carolina State REALLY underwhelmed Buffalo State Thursday night.

Playing just for "enjoyment," as Coach Norm Sloan called it, the country's top-ranked basketball team laughed all the way through a 144-88 blitz.

"We have not been relaxing enough in the first two games," said Sloan, whose team was never more relaxed than Thursday night.

David Thompson was the most relaxed of all, scoring a career-high 57 points that broke the individual scoring record for an Atlantic Coast Conference team. The extraordinary forward cracked the old mark of 56 set by South Carolina's John Roche in 1971.

"We played this one to enjoy it," noted Sloan, whose defending national champions won their first two games of the year with more of a struggle. "We were not worried about the point total. We felt very good about this game."

Thompson, last year's Player of the Year in college basketball, had started out this season in high style. He scored 33 and 42 points, his previous game high before Thursday night, in his first two games.

In the only other game involving a ranked team, the sixth-ranked Louisville Cardinals whipped the Dayton Flyers 76-65.

A crowd of 12,400 watched the Wolfpack use the fast break for most of the game as 5-foot-5 guard Monte Towe and guard Mo Rivers pressured Buffalo State into 31 turnovers. Thompson and fellow forwards Phil Spence and Tim Stoddard controlled the boards and hurled pinpoint court-length passes for lay-ins.

Four other N. C. State players scored in double figures. Stoddard and freshman Kenny Carr each scored 16 points, Spence added 15 and Rivers got 14.

Buffalo State's guard Al Richardson was the Bengals' leading scorer with 26 points. The Wolfpack's Thompson was the game's leading rebounder with 17, followed by Bengal Gregg Miller with 12. Buffalo State is now 2-1.

Led by the shooting of forward Allen Murphy and center Ricky Gallon, Louisville came from behind in the second half to defeat Dayton.

Louisville, 2-0, after trailing 36-33 at halftime, scored the first seven points after intermission to take the lead for good as Murphy started hitting from the key. Gallon scored 10 of his total 12 points in the second half.

Junior Bridgeman paced Louisville with 16 points and Murphy added 15. Johnny Davis of the Flyers, 1-1, had a game-high 17 points.

In other games, George Bucci scored 29 points and Bill Campion added 22 to lead Manhattan to an 86-74 victory over Fairfield; Steve Fields paced Miami of Ohio with 26 points as the Redskins roared back from a one-point halftime deficit to defeat the University of Cincinnati 68-63; freshman Mike Vicens led a balanced Holy Cross attack with 20 points as the Crusaders handed error-prone Dartmouth its fourth straight basketball loss 94-70, and Kansas State threw up a tight zone defense midway through the second half and pulled away for a 64-58 victory over Southern Methodist.

Americans take World Bowl, 22-21

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Raise the muskets and fire a two-gun salute for George Mira and World Football League. They've got it coming.

Both know full well how hopes for greatness can tarnish and fade. But, even if it was only a one-night stand, both could hold their heads a bit higher today.

Mira's 11-year search through forgotten teams in three professional leagues for the glory he knew as a collegiate finally brought him some satisfaction here Thursday when he expertly maneuvered the Birmingham

Americans to victory in the first World Bowl.

And the WFL, whose incredible financial problems could conceivably force it to fold without ever playing a second season, at least closed its first one on a brief note of respectability.

Historians might even say that Birmingham's 22-21 victory over the Florida Blazers, whose furious fourth-quarter comeback failed by the narrowest of margins, bodes good for the future.

This game drew a crowd of 32,376, which is 183 more than the old American Football League drew to its first championship game. The determining factor this time was Mira, the 11-year pro.

That is not to say that the WFL's $20 million debt and its other problems will disappear, because they obviously won't. And the president of this league acknowledges it is possible the WFL will fold by March.

But for three hours Thursday night football finally had center stage.

"I don't know what happens tomorrow," said Birmingham Coach Jake Gotta in a champagne-filled wild dressing room celebration. "Tonight is the greatest night in my life."

It almost wasn't. Mira had alternated four running backs, completed two key passes to tight end Bob Brown and run out of trouble several times himself as he methodically produced three long marches and a 22-0 lead.

But then Bob Davis, the Florida quarterback whose only two completions in the first 44 minutes were caught by the wrong team, found himself. And his receivers.

In a 90-second stretch he took his team 88 yards with four pass completions, the last one covering 39 yards and ending with Tommy Ream on in the end zone.

Panthers drop Wilmington

Behind Brent Knisley's 20 point effort and the team's red hot shooting, Miami Trace's freshman team raised its season record to 2-0 with a 52-40 victory over Wilmington on the Panthers' court, Thursday evening.

Miami Trace out-scored Wilmington 20-11 in the second period to break the game open. The Panthers connected on 19 of 33 field goal attempts for 58 per cent. From the foul line, the Panthers dropped in 14 of 23 free throws.

Center Bill Hanners also hit double figures with 11 points. Hanners was the top rebounder for the Panthers with eight.

With 18 points, Jay Harte was the only player to hit double figures for the Hurricane.

Miami Trace committed 15 turnovers during the contest. The Panthers also came up with 10 steals on defense.

Box score

MIAMI TRACE (52) — Riley (2-0-4); Glass (1-0-2); Hanners (4-3-11); Knisley (6-8-20); Eyre (1-0-2); Creamer (3-0-6); Downing (2-0-4); Raines (0-2-2); and Redman (0-1-1); Total (19-14-52).

WILMINGTON (40) — Elliott (1-1-3); Narde (2-0-4); Marshall (3-3-9); Harte (6-6-18); Martin (1-2-4); and Baldwin (1-0-2); Total (14-12-40).

Buffalo Sabres rip Washington Capitals

The British might have burned Washington in the War of 1812, but it's the "French Connection" line that's trampling the Capitals now.

"I'm glad I won't see the 'French Connection' for a while," Washington Capitals' goalie John Adams said Thursday after his National Hockey League team was blitzed by the Buffalo Sabres 9-2.

Bosses night, Yule light projects eyed by Jaycees

Preparations are being completed by the Washington C.H. Jaycees for the annual bosses night banquet and home Christmas light judging project.

Mike Bailo, chairman of the bosses night banquet, said the event will be held Jan. 22. The site of the banquet will probably be the Washington Country Club. The guest speaker will be Wendell Richardson, president of the Ohio Jaycees.

Chairmen for the individual award selections have been named. John Marcum, Jaycee chapter president, will serve as chairman of the boss of the year and local Jaycee awards; Jim Irons will head the distinguished service award; Ron Weade, physical fitness award; Fred Hoppes, outstanding young farmer; and Larry Cruea, outstanding young educator award.

Cruea, who serves as chairman of the Christmas light judging project, said the contest will be held Dec. 19.

Three Washington C.H. Jaycees have been appointed as new state directors. They are John Gault, Clem Edwards and Dave Loudner.

Mastodon molar discovered in attic

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Mike Walters rummaged through his neighbor's attic the other day and found a mastodon's molar.

"Before he (the neighbor) left he said I could look around," said the 12-year-old youth. "I found them (the tooth is in two pieces) on a chair in the attic and he said I could have them."

The Ohio Historical Society confirmed the find, which is estimated to be worth $20 to $50 as a science exhibit. Apparently the molar, coated with preservative, came from a mastodon that once lived in Ohio.

Snow still plagues Ohio

Snow lingering from the storms of early this week continues to plague Akron and some other sections of northern Ohio today.

Akron School Supt. Conrad Ott said schools there were being kept closed for the fifth straight day. The big problem, Ott said, was snow-clogged sidewalks.

"We have 49,000 kids who have to walk in the streets," Ott said. "The police department has asked us not to force the kids to walk in the streets, so we're just waiting for sidewalks to be cleared."

Ott said the youngsters will not have to make up the five days lost this week because the state allows five days each year to be lost to emergencies.

The snow has been blamed for between 15 and 20 deaths, mostly from snow shoveling as homeowners tried to dig out from under the wet, white blanket.

Tough energy plans topic for meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has set a meeting of top energy advisers for Dec. 14 at Camp David, Md., amid indications it may be getting ready to impose tough limits on gasoline consumption.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton expressed fears Thursday that voluntary measures to cut fuel consumption may not be enough and the government may have to take strong measures.

In an interview with broadcast and magazine reporters, he said that mandatory conservation measures that might be considered included gasoline rationing, a stiff new tax on gasoline and a quota limiting oil imports.

Meanwhile, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he will press for congressional passage this month of legislation giving the President standby authority to ration fuel and order increased domestic energy production.

Jackson warned that another oil embargo may result if hostilities are renewed in the Middle East. This, combined with declining U.S. oil production, "could push our economy to the brink of depression," he said in a statement inserted into the Congressional Record.

The Dec. 14 meeting of the Cabinet-level Energy Resources Council will draw up specific energy policies to recommend to Ford, an informed source said Thursday.

The council, made up of some 20 heads of federal departments and agencies chaired by Morton, received last month the Federal Energy Administration's "Project Independent ence" report, a massive study of energy issues.

Ford has said he hoped voluntary cooperation by the public and industry would cut oil consumption by one million barrels a day by the end of 1975. But Morton and other energy officials have begun warning that voluntary efforts may not be enough.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Wednesday that Ford is not satisfied with the progress of the voluntary program.

"I think it might be possible to limit imports at a certain level, tax fuel to a certain level and also allocate fuel where it is needed and probably have some form of consumer rationing without having to go all out for one system or another," Morton told the congressional Joint Economic Committee Thursday.

Although Ford has rejected proposals for a stiff new tax on gasoline, Morton and other top officials still consider it a potential option.

Morton also mentioned in the news briefing the possibility of taxing crude oil or energy in general, an Interior Department spokesman said.

The first attempted English settlement of America was on what is now Roanoke Island, N.C., in 1585.

County youths to benefit

Secret Santa Fund is not restricted

By SANDY FOSSON

Record-Herald Staff Writer
The Secret Santa Fund, Inc., has provided the spirit of Christmas for over 50,000 children in its 17 years of existence.

But what many people in this area do not realize is that the Secret Santa program is not restricted to just the Columbus region.

IN FACT, approximately 25 children from the Fayette County area will benefit from the fund this year and be treated to a Christmas party Dec. 17 in Columbus, according to Mrs. Jane Hyer, executive secretary of the Fayette County Children's Services Board.

Ms. Pat Cramer, WTVN-TV program manager and district coordinator for the Secret Santa program this year, said that the private corporation, which is located only in central Ohio and is headquartered in Columbus, provides toys and gifts through donations for between 2,000 and 4,000 children annually from approximately 800 families.

Also included in the program are five Christmas parties to be held for orphans from throughout the central Ohio area. This year, the program will treat between 500 and 600 children to lunch at the Sheraton Motor Hotel in downtown Columbus, a Christmas party and a distribution of gifts after converging at the WTVN television studio.

Mrs. Hyer said that all 18 children from the Fayette County Children's Home and possibly about seven other underprivileged children from the Fayette County area would be attending the function.

Coal pact approval sends workers back into mines

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The nation's soft coal miners began returning to work today just hours after their leaders signed a new contract with the coal industry.

Hundreds of miners reported for work on the midnight to 8 a.m. shift this morning in southern West Virginia after shutting down 70 per cent of the country's coal production since their old contract expired on Nov. 12.

Most of the United Mine Workers union's 120,000 members, however, are not expected to be back on their jobs until Monday.

UMW President Arnold Miller, in announcing that the contract had been approved by 56 per cent of those voting, said the agreement would become effect at 12:01 a.m. today.

Immediately, officials of Consolidation Coal Corp., the nation's second largest producer, were on the phone with local UMW leaders. Soon afterwards, local union safety committees began inspecting the closed down mines so that production could resume at midnight. Other companies followed suit.

Most companies kept their mines at a work-ready condition during the walkout. Supervisors were at mine sites daily making sure pumps and fans were operating and conducting fireboss inspections on roofing support and electrical systems.

One union official said the miner's eagerness to return to work was because they wanted to receive at least one paycheck before the Christmas holidays.

There were threats that 4,400 mine construction workers covered under a separate UMW contract might prevent mines from reopening by putting pickets up at portals this morning.

But foremen at Eastern Associated Coal Co.'s two Kopperston mines in Wyoming County and New River Coal Co.'s Siltex mine in Fayette County reported that only working miners showed up at midnight.

The union and the Association of Bituminous Contractors are continuing talks in Washington on a new contract

Colson testimony harmful to Watergate defendants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody wanted to vouch for Charles W. Colson's credibility as he testified in the Watergate cover-up trial. Not old rival John N. Mitchell. Not H. R. Haldeman or John D. Ehrlichman, his former White House associates.

They had good reason. For on his first day on the witness stand Thursday, Colson told of:

—His early suspicions about Mitchell's role in Watergate and of carrying them to then President Richard M. Nixon.

—Haldeman's concern about John W. Dean III's role in the planning meetings that triggered the Watergate break-in and Haldeman's rationalization about the money paid later to those charged with the burglary.

—Ehrlichman's sending him to reassure E. Howard Hunt Jr. that he had a friend in the White House at a time when the edgy and depressed Hunt was pushing for money and bargaining to stay out of jail.

After hearing what Colson had to say, chief government prosecutor James F. Neal quipped to Ehrlichman's lawyer, William S. Frates:

"If you're gonna call more witnesses like that, we'll take them all."

Frates had summoned Colson from a federal prison cell in Alabama, where he is serving a 1-3 year term for obstruction of justice in the Ellsberg case, to testify about one specific point.

But Frates refused to vouch for Colson, as lawyers usually do for their own witnesses. He was adopted as a court witness, making him fair game for cross examination by all sides.

The jury was informed of that by the judge and by every lawyer who questioned the witness.

Colson said two conversations with Mitchell made him suspicious.

One was a few days before the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic headquarters. Colson said he was talking with Mitchell about meetings that were being held at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York between Dwayne O. Andreas, a major contributor to both parties, and Hubert H. Humphrey.

"Mitchell said at that date, with a half smile, 'Tell me what room they are in and I'll tell you what's being said,'" Colson testified.

Colson said "what really put the caper on it as far as I was concerned" was learning about the meetings in Mitchell's office where G. Gordon Liddy's political espionage plans were discussed. "It led me to go to the President and say I fear Mitchell is involved and should step forward."

for the construction workers, whose old pact also expired on Nov. 12.

The three-year agreement signed Thursday by Miller and the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn. provides miners with a 64 per cent increase in wages and benefits, with a 10 per cent pay boost the first year. The means that miners' pay scales will immediately rise from $42-$50 a day to $46-$55.

With 79,495 UMW members casting ballots, the final vote on the accord was 44,754 in favor to 34,471 against. It represents the first time in the union's 84-year history that rank-and-file miners have been given a direct vote in determining under what conditions they will work.

The coal-dependent steel and railroad industries greeted news of the new contract with caution. They said they were still wary because of the agreement's slim margin of approval

Highest in 13-year period

Unemployment rate spurts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate leaped to 6.5 per cent in November, its highest level in 13 years, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed Americans rose by 482,000 last month to a total of 5,979,000.

At the same time, total employment in the nation dropped by nearly 800,000 last month to 85.7 million, virtually wiping out the entire increase in the number of jobs over the past year.

Massive layoffs in the automobile industry and job losses in electrical equipment and textile industries and retail trade accounted for most of the job losses last month, the department said.

The unemployment rate has not exceeded 6 per cent since October 1961, when it hit 6.1 per cent.

The sharp rise in unemployment, a reflection of the nation's deepening recession, is expected to spur changes in Ford administration economic policies. It also is likely to speed congressional passage of new legislation to aid the unemployed.

A measure approved Thursday by the House Ways and Means Committee would provide an additional $1 billion in emergency jobless benefits over the next year.

The November unemployment figures were based on data gathered before the middle of the month. Thousands more workers have been laid off since then, in part due to slumping auto sales and the nationwide coal strike. This will push the jobless rate for December still higher.

This trend was indicated Thursday in the Labor Department's weekly report on unemployment insurance benefits. The report said the number of initial claims for jobless benefits increased by 81,600 during the week ending Nov. 23 and that 42 states reported higher volumes.

A year ago, 1,430,000 workers were receiving unemployment insurance benefits.

The November increase in the jobless rate represented the third monthly spurt in a row. After taking 10 months to rise to 5.4 per cent from last October's 3½-year low of 4.8 per cent, the

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man most likely to be running the House's tax-writing committee next year hints the income tax may need to be supplemented with a national sales tax.

Possible new taxes and final action on national health insurance were among ideas Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., outlined Thursday as he predicted "we're going to get a tax reform bill next year and it will be a good one."

Ullman is expected to take over the powerful post of chairman of the Ways and Means Committee from the hospitalized Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark. The Constitution requires that money bills originate in the House, and the committee is where they begin.

Despite widespread feeling to the contrary among veteran Congress-watchers, Ullman also said he expects this Congress to vote to increase oil industry taxes and make modest reductions in individual income taxes before ending its session this month.

At an informal news conference, Ullman suggested the basic tax system itself would be examined, and he indicated he thinks the nation depends too much on income taxes. And on issues involving the financing of any sweeping health insurance plan, he said, "I don't believe in payroll taxes ... but we'd have to find some other financial mechanism. I think it would be a disaster to dip into general revenues."

Ullman added: "I think we've gone about as far as we can go on payroll taxes. It is regressive. There are a lot of taxpayers paying more payroll taxes than income taxes." However, he said he sees no across-the-board income tax cut.

Furthermore, he said he is "not a great believer in the surtax" as recently suggested by President Ford, because it would underscore "inequity of the income tax."

The income tax system, he argued, "creates some real budgetary problems. If we're trying to establish a more stable flow, then we're going to have to broaden the tax base" by coming up with an additional revenue source such as perhaps a "value added tax."

That's a national sales tax applied at every stage of the process from raw material to the consumer who ultimately pays it. In various forms, it has been adopted throughout Western Europe.

Whatever tax revision bill is put together, the goal is action by next July, he said.

State vote recount to open Wednesday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A recount of Gov. John J. Gilligan's apparent loss by less than 5 per cent to former Gov. James A. Rhodes will begin on Wednesday.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown set the date Thursday when Gilligan asked formally that the ballots be counted again after official figures showed him losing by 11,414 votes.

The governor's written request came as no surprise. He had said earlier he would take the action under a state law providing for a recount at public expense when a candidate loses by less than one-half of 1 per cent.

"The people of Ohio deserve a fair, accurate count of their ballots," Gilligan said Thursday. "Those Ohioans who voted on Nov. 5, and even those who did not, deserve to know that every precaution has been taken to ensure that their votes have been recorded and counted accurately."

Brown, who said the counting of Ohio's 13,000 plus polling places will take about a week, has refused to issue directives ordering several "precautions" Gilligan would like to see taken.

Gilligan said his representatives would continue to seek Brown's assurance that witnesses be permitted to challenge ballots, that questionable ballots be segregated, and that a hand count be conducted in counties where the vote was tallied by computer.

Brown has insisted that local polling place officials should have discretion over procedural matters such as the role of witnesses.

He has ordered computerized counties to hand count 2 to 3 per cent of their ballots and run the punch cards through the computers to assure the hardware is functioning properly. The remaining punchcard ballots are simply to be put through the computers a second time, he said.

David Young, an attorney representing Gilligan's interests in the recount, has not ruled out court action to try to force Brown's acquiescence, but thinks litigation is unlikely because it would probably delay the counting.

Gilligan, who left for the Democratic mini-convention in Kansas City, Mo. shortly after his letter was delivered to Brown, had until Monday to formally request the recount.

The last recount in Ohio in 1954 saw Republican George K. Bender's victory over Democrat Thomas A. Burke in a contest for the U.S. Senate upheld by about 3,000 votes.

Water service still major concern

Jeff mayor delays resignation as two village officials quit

JEFFERSONVILLE — Although Jeffersonville Mayor Donald M. Morrow had planned to tender his resignation at Wednesday's council meeting, he delayed the action when two other village officials submitted their resignations.

Early in the meeting Council member Larry Cook and his wife, Marlene, who serves as village treasurer, submitted their resignations to the council effective Dec. 31. The couple explained that personal commitments would make it impossible for them to attend council meetings after the first of the year.

Morrow had planned to resign immediately but reconsidered when he learned of the Cooks' resignations. If the mayor had resigned, the president of council would become the interim mayor, leaving a vacancy on the council. Since Cook's seat would also be vacant, it would be difficult to consistently have a quorum at the meetings. Therefore, Morrow postponed the resignation but stated that he intended to resign as soon as possible.

Appointed superintendent of the East Clinton School District in October, 1973, Morrow said his responsibilities to the district were becoming more demanding and that he was no longer able to give the position as mayor the amount of time it deserves.

He further explained that he feels it is the duty of a superintendent to live in the school district committed to his care. He has, therefore, sold his home in Jeffersonville and will be moving to Clinton County in the near future.

He has served as village mayor since 1969, and was formerly principal of Jeffersonville High School. He once taught at Miami Trace High School and has served as principal of Fairfield (Leesburg) and East Clinton high schools.

WATER SERVICE continues to be a major concern for Jeffersonville residents. The village system has been barely able to supply the needs of its residents and water pressure has been consistently low.

The two wells which are currently in operation provide approximately 70,000 gallons of water per day. However, area residents are using 65,000 to 70,000 gallons. Three new wells have been drilled during the past three years, but none were satisfactory, and they are not being used. The council will have to decide whether to attempt another well or to pump all three of the dormant

Kroger stew suspected of botulism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 24,000 cans of beef stew sold under the Kroger supermarket chain label are being recalled voluntarily by the company. Kroger announced the recall when U.S. Agriculture Department officials identified a can of Krog stew as the source of food poisoning which killed a Georgia woman Sunday. The stew is suspected of being contaminated with botulism bacteria. Killed was Mrs. Cleo Harris, 79, of Griffin. A relative, Mrs. Mary Bevel, 73, who also ate the stew, is in Emory Hospital in Atlanta, officials said. A Kroger spokesman at company headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, said the company is recalling the stew as a precaution. He said the botulism was suspected in only one can of stew out of a 24,000 lot processed last July 11. The stew was processed by Krey Packing Co., of Jackson, Tenn. for Kroger, officials said. Krey has also initiated recalls of the product. "Consumers having this brand of beef stew ... should return it to the market where purchased," officials said. "Under no circumstances should the cans be opened and tasted." Kroger officials said the stew is in 24-ounce cans which can be identified by the code, "EST. 712 192 S4" embossed in the lids.

Ohio jobless funds reported adequate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The administrator of Ohio's Bureau of Employment Services says state unemployment compensation funds are adequate, despite the increasing number of Ohioans filing for unemployment benefits.

William E. Garnes said, "We could safely get through two years of anything we could anticipate." Garnes said. "If the recession or depression, whatever you call it, continues beyond that, we could experience difficulty."

In recent weeks, thousands of unemployed persons in Ohio have filed for benefits for the first time. Last week alone, the bureau had 28,000 new claimants and 117,000 continuing claims.

In October, the state unemployment rate was 4.5 per cent, or an estimated 213,000 of the 4,762,000 civilian labor force.

With 32,000 Ohio workers laid off or furloughed in the past two months due to the effects of a general production slump, declining sales in the car and major appliance industries, and cut-backs in fuel supplies available, unemployment benefits are increasingly important to families as the sole way to pay bills.

And trends indicate more persons will be out of work before the nationwide economic slump is over, with the state unemployment rate reaching as high as 5.5 per cent by the start of the new year.

However, Garnes said, "If we level off at 6 per cent for two years we're in pretty good shape. If we go beyond that it will be sooner before we have to do something with the fund."

As of Oct. 31, the state had more than $776 million in its unemployment fund, said William Papier, director of research and statistics in the bureau.

About 89 per cent of Ohio's labor force is eligible for unemployment benefits, Papier said.

"We need to dispel the notion that you come in and say 'where's my money,'" Papier said.

To be eligible, a worker must have been employed 20 or more weeks in the preceding year by an employer subject to the state law, have earned an average of $20 weekly, and be available for work, Papier said. Workers involved in labor disputes, discharged for cause, or quitting voluntarily, are not eligible to draw benefits, he added.

The Ohio law has an automatic escalator clause, Papier said, which raises benefits in the calendar year following any increases in the average weekly wage scale.

Anyone who files for compensation Jan. 1 will be receiving increased benefits, Papier said. An eligible claimant with no dependents who has averaged at least $162 weekly in the previous year will receive the maximum benefits of $82 a week for up to 26 weeks, Papier said.

A claimant with one dependent, averaging $189, will receive $100, he said. And at the top of the scale, a claimant with four or more dependents, averaging $218, will receive the ceiling of $121 weekly.

Overrides of Ford vetoes already near setting mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford in four months in office already has had more vetoes overridden by Congress than many of his predecessors.

In three instances, his vetoes got only a single supporting vote in the Senate.

His free use of the veto power, particularly when he obviously had no chance of being sustained by Congress, is upsetting to some Republicans in the Senate and the House.

"He is ill-served by disastrous defeats on vetoes," Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said recently. "I'm greatly disturbed by it."

House GOP leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona has called for Ford to consult more with congressional leaders before he vetoes bills.

Rhodes said the veto power is going to have to be used more selectively if the President is going to be sustained by Congress more often. Similar sentiments were voiced by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.

On Thursday, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford "does intend to cooperate with the Democratic Congress" and that Ford displayed "no irritation whatsoever" at Rhodes' criticism of his frequent vetoes.

Ford is up against a Democratic-controlled Congress, but so was former President Richard M. Nixon who, in his 5½ years in office had only 5 of his 25 vetoes overridden.

So far Ford has vetoed 15 bills. Congress made no attempt to override seven of these. Ford broke even on the other eight, being sustained on four and overridden on four.

The latest bill written into law over his veto provides for a 22.7 per cent increase in education and training benefits for veterans.

The vote in the House was 394-10 and in the Senate 90-1.

Ford contended the increased benefits were greater than needed and would have an inflationary impact.

Also overridden were Ford's vetoes of bills to subsidize the railroad retirement system to keep it from going bankrupt, to strengthen the Freedom of Information Act and to change the administration of the vocational rehabilitation program.

Neither Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson nor John F. Kennedy, with their own party in control of Congress, had as many of their vetoes overridden. And Dwight D. Eisenhower had only two of 73 vetoes overridden.

If all three of the wells are pumped slowly, they can be expected to provide a combined total of about 10,000 gallons per day. That amount would adequately fulfill the area's immediate needs, but would provide only a minor hedge for future expansion.

Village solicitor Dennis Ulrich has responded to a suit filed by Contractors Service Co., Cincinnati. The suit filed in Fayette County Common Pleas Court seeks $15,000 which the firm claims it is still owed on its contract with the Village of Jeffersonville. The answer denies any liability on the part of the village.

Officials noted that the firm did not complete the sewer installation work by the date specified in the contract. The money cited in the suit was withheld as a penalty on the time overrun, and thus it is felt that the village has fulfilled its obligation to the contract.

A master plan for development of the Jeffersonville area was submitted to council by a Columbus firm, and action by the council to accept or reject the plan is expected during the January meeting. Council has already accepted a set of subdivision regulation submitted by the firm and is also to receive a draft zoning regulations early next year.

Before the close of the meeting, Morrow asked members of council to submit names of candidates for the vacated council set before council reconvenes. Members were also asked to consider the priority items for 1975. These will be discussed at the January meeting.

purchases the toys and gifts through private and group donations. The gifts are then individually wrapped for each child to match his or her age and sex to add a more personal touch. The fund receives names from all over the central Ohio region through churches, schools and community group referrals.

But the Secret Santa program is not immune from the problems of rising costs, and according to Ms. Cramer, in order to avoid cutting any corners in the program itself, the corporation is having to take alternate steps in combatting inflationary measures.

"We are trying to get more groups involved on a personal level and are having to go to more promotion," she said. She added that although the WTVN-TV station was not associated with the program except to promote it as a public service, it has planned to sponsor a Secret Santa promotion in front of the Statehouse Dec. 11 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. "In order that people may come down to donate money on the air and receive a little credit for their contributions," Ms. Cramer said.

As typical of all such programs this year, the number of families requesting aid from the Secret Santa Fund is growing at an astronomical rate.

The Fayette County Children's Services Board has only two caseworkers but they handle the cases of 132 children from the Fayette County Children's Home, foster homes, families in their own homes, adoptive children and children in other institutions, Mrs. Hyer said.

MS. CRAMER said there was no possible way to estimate the percentage increase in requests for aid this year with letters still flooding into the station but added, "There are particularly more needy families on the list this year. We just cannot receive enough donations to help all of them."

Because the Secret Santa Fund, Inc., cannot provide for all the needy families seeking relief, a Christmas Clearing House in Columbus (much like the Community Action Outreach program in Fayette County) has been referring names of needy families to various groups for help in order to furnish the most gifts to the largest number of deserving families.

Despite the tight money situations, Ms. Cramer was confident there was no danger of being forced to discontinue the Secret Santa Fund.

"The program will always continue because there will always be people who care," she said. "Maybe this year the program will help one needy family and next year, they will come back and say, 'Hey, look, you helped me last year when I needed it so here's something for someone else.'"

"It's this type of care that the whole Secret Santa program is based on."

Coal pact

and the possibility of wildcat striking from miners opposed to it.

Approximately 25,000 workers in the two industries were laid off because of the walkout. And spokesmen indicated it would be some time before all of them are back on the job.

The Penn Central and Norfolk & Western railroads said they would recall approximately 2,500 workers as they are needed. They don't expect trains to resume hauling coal until late next week when the mines are well back into full production.

U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer, said it will restart full production and call back the 18,000 workers it laid off on a week-by-week basis.

U.S. Steel owns several of the mines in southern West Virginia that planned to resume operations today.

Several strip mines employing about 4,000 UMW members in eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia were also scheduled to resume work today. But they are not expected to begin actual mining until next week.

Miners' reactions to the new agreement were mixed. "Some of them are happy, some of them are a little bit irritated because they didn't get everything that they thought they could get," said UMW District 6 vice president Arthur Nelms.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The government's report of a big jump in unemployment last month helped drive stock market prices broadly lower again today. The pace of selling accelerated a bit.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.79 at 581.27, and losers held a 4-to-1 edge on gainers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Shortly before the opening, the Labor Department reported the unemployment rate had jumped from 6 to 6.5 per cent in November, reaching its highest level in 13 years.

The Southern Co. was the Big Board volume leader, down 1/4 at 9 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index declined .67 to 59.59.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was down .38 at 34.70.

American Agronomics, the most-active Amex issue, lost 3/4 to 10 1/2.

Postal hike seen again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deficit-plagued U.S. Postal Service, which increased first-class mail rates by two cents last March, probably will seek another boost that could take effect next July, Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen said.

Klassen said Thursday that a request for the new increase likely would be made to the Postal Rate Commission in March. The Postal Service faces an operating deficit of more than $400 million this year and could go into the red by twice that much in 1975, he said.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This weekend Bill Moyers takes off for a week of meetings in connection with "Bill Moyers' Foreign Report," a new public TV series on international affairs that will start Jan. 16.

For Moyers, 40, it's back to the weekly grind he left last spring when he folded his Emmy award-winning "Bill Moyers' Journal" after a three-season run on public TV to simply rest and think.

But the former White House press secretary says he has no hesitation about returning to the grind, which calls for him to put together 20 one-hour shows to be aired by the Public Broadcasting Service.

"I don't mind it as long as I'm doing something that was different from what I did the last three years," he said. "Television is a consuming medium and if you don't figure out how to constantly beat it, it will dictate to you."

His new attack, he says, calls for a mixture of taped interviews with various world figures, historians, philosophers and journalists and some documentaries about foreign countries such as Japan and Mexico.

And, he adds, he'll try to have four or five shows exhibiting what impressions foreign television newsmen and documentary-makers are giving of the United States to viewers in their own countries.

The weekly series will cost about $975,000, $500,000 of which comes from the German Marshall Fund, a Washington-based, American-run foundation set up in 1972 by the German government with a $10-million grant.

Moyers says the fund is dedicated to the memory of the late Gen. George Marshall and aims at improving international understanding.

The Corporation for Public Broadcasting is kicking in $200,000, and IBM and the Ford Foundation $100,000 each, with another $75,000 coming from the Inter-American Foundation in Washington, D.C.

He said he decided to do the series after talks this summer at his Aspen, Colo., vacation retreat with Hartford Gunn, PBS president, and Benjamin Read, head of the German Marshall Fund.

He said he pondered their talks for a few days and came to the conclusion the show would be both a logical extension of his interest in international affairs and his previous work on public television.

Opinion And Comment

Bargaining for life

Disclosures about Haile Selassie in recent times have irreparably tarnished the image of the Lion of Judah. Some 40 years ago he caught the world's imagination, and aroused widespread admiration, when he appealed to the League of Nations for help against an aggressive Italian dictatorship. Now he is deposed, discredited, held up to the world as the autocratic oppressor of Ethiopia's common people during his long reign as emperor.

The latest chapter in the saga of this patrician ruler concerns the sorry business of bargaining for his life with a fortune extorted from his people over a period of many years. The word now is that, having signed over a vast sum to the military junta, he will be allowed to live out his few remaining years.

If such a bargain has indeed been struck, Selassie is the gainer. Even at his advanced age - perhaps even all the more so at his age - almost anything is worth relinquishing for a little more life. Still, the old emperor's final time among the living will in some ways be a hard time to bear - a time of ignominy after decades of almost absolute power, a time of sad memories of days when as emperor he ruled without question.

Haile Selassie can be seen, now, as one who did not do as much as he might have to raise his people from the morass of poverty and social injustice that engulfed them. All the same, we feel a little sorry for this old man with the proud hawk face who is now so utterly brought down to the dust.

THESE DAYS . . . By John Chamberlain

Concerned by our presumptions

When President John F. Kennedy informed the Soviets that the U.S. would not tolerate the off-loading of atomic weapons in Cuba, it was, in the measured description of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation in which Khrushchev blinked first.

Now President Ford is faced with another eyeball-to-eyeball situation. The question this time is which one of the world's two great superpowers can be forced, through intimidation, into betraying a "client" ally in the Middle East?

The new confrontation might not be quite as unnerving as the Kennedy-Khrushchev eyeball-to-eyeball missile crisis if it were not for one thing. The animosities that have been heating up in the Middle East have reached such savage intensity that diplomatic restraints on the Arabs and Israelis could be ruptured in spite of any U.S.-Soviet wish to prolong detente.

What does the Palestinian leader

Yasir Arafat care about detente? His cocky demeanor at the UN, where he presented a take-it-or-leave-it demand for a "democratic" Palestinian state in which the Israelis would be outnumbered indicated that nothing which Kissinger could do would cause him to call off his guerrillas.

The shoot-out in Beit Shean, 15 miles south of the Sea of Galilee, was a horrifying display of unmitigated ferocity on both sides. It was Yasir Arafat's terrorists who provoked it even as President Ford was on his way to a Far East parley with Brezhnev in Vladivostok.

The eye-for-an-eye and tooth-for-a-tooth psychology that now grips both sides in the Middle East means that neither of the two superpowers can let a "client" down without risking a quick and exultant resort to open warfare on the part of the nation that gets the break.

How can Kissinger defuse a situation of this sort? If he can do it, he will indeed be a wonder worker.

This column does not subscribe to conspiracy theories. But conspiracies are unnecessary when ideological tides are running. Yasir Arafat is now riding high because all of the liberal presumptions of the past 30 years have operated to weaken the West at the precise moment that a strong united front for enforcing peace is needed. With or without a conspiracy, things couldn't have broken better for the Communists.

Look at the bewildering series of events that have flowed from liberal presumptions in the past few years. They have culminated in the energy crisis. The British are on the verge of cashing in on their share of the North Sea oil discoveries. Given three or four more years and they will be free of dependence on their coal miners' good will. But the Communists in the coal miners' union called for their debilitating strike last winter at the very moment the Arab powers were exulting over the Western world's vulnerability to the "oil weapon."

I'm sure it wasn't planned that way. But the liberal presumption that human demands are always sacrosanct made it happen.

In the U.S., the liberal presumption that ecology must come before economics kept the Alaska pipeline from being built for six long years. Even now we would lack U.S.-owned tankers to transport the oil from Valdez in Alaska to Seattle if the pipeline were ready. Our maritime unions have seen to it that the law would prevent any foreign-owned or foreign-built tanker from transporting oil from one bit of U.S. coastal territory to another. And where is the liberal who would vote an exception to the rule in the matter of bringing oil from the 49th state to any port in the "lower 48?"

The West is the prisoner of its liberal presumptions. Meanwhile the Arabs have Western Europe at their mercy for energy. The only thing that can maintain the precarious status quo in the Middle East is the U.S. government's will to send a tank or a plane to Israel for every tank and plane the Soviets unload at a Syrian or Egyptian port.

Would the U.S. blink first if the Arabs were to renew the oil embargo? I'd like to say no, but if France, Britain, Italy, West Germany and some of the smaller West European powers begin to freeze in a cold winter, what would Jerry Ford do?

Mothers quickly work outside

NEW YORK (AP) — Millington F. McCloy, an executive of a personnel-search firm, worked late on a Friday, had her baby on Saturday, and was on the phone from her hospital bed with her clients on Monday. About two months later, she was back in her Park Avenue office and little Daniel was at home with a baby-sitter.

Whether they're dedicated to career, forced by economic necessity, or compelled by sheer restlessness, more and more new mothers are returning to work within weeks of their baby's arrival.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, in March 1974, there were 7,977,000 mothers with children under the age of 3. Of that group, 32.4 per cent of the mothers were in the labor force, up from 30.2 per cent in 1973 and 21.8 per cent in 1964.

Despite continuing debate about a mother's role and importance in successful infant rearing and many company policies allowing up to one year maternity leave, these women have willingly and in some cases eagerly opted to push pencils instead of baby carriages.

Though private, professional baby-sitters are expensive, the mothers say it's worth the $80 or more a week to keep up with their careers as well as to ease any lingering anxieties about their baby's welfare.

Some mothers working in lower-paying jobs have no choice but to place their children in day care centers.

However, there are hardly enough such facilities available.

As an assistant vice-president of Handy Associates, Mrs. Millington "Millie" McCloy was well able to afford a $30 a day nurse for Daniel, now 5 months old. She said she wouldn't be comfortable in the role of a full-time mother and housewife.

"I have always been very committed to my career and it simply would not have been to my advantage to drop out and care for a baby," said Mrs. McCloy. "I've always been able to keep a lot of balls in the air. Even though one has to make sacrifices, I was determined to combine both worlds."

But sometimes, mothering during office hours has presented some unique problems.

Even though she was back at work on a regular schedule, Mrs. McCloy wanted her baby to have mother's milk. It was too difficult to go all the way home at lunchtime. So while her male counterparts socialized with martinis Mrs. McCloy excused herself, collected the milk from her breasts in a glass, and asked the astonished waiters for a dish of ice so the milk would keep until she could take it home to Daniel.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
For "Dear Sir,"
how 'bout "Hi y'all"?

DEAR ABBY: The idea of eliminating all salutations in business letters in order to do away with the sexist "Dear Sir," has provoked me to write.

I propose, "Dear Y'all." It's friendly, all-inclusive, personal, impersonal, masculine, feminine and in between. A less formal "Hi, Y'all" might also be considered.

FRIENDLY IN DALLAS
DEAR FRIENDLY: Y'all's entitled to Y'all's opinion. But I doubt that it will play in Peoria.

DEAR ABBY: Our son Cliff, is 22. He's seeing a woman who is 32. She is twice divorced, has one child with her last mate and two (ages 10 and 12) with her first.

She's a cocktail waitress in a private club. I've never met her so all I have to go on is her track record and the fact that she's ten years older than Cliff.

This woman appears to be chasing our son. She met him when she and a girl friend went to the night club where he was performing. She has called here several times trying to locate him. My husband and I are terribly upset to think that he may have an interest in her.

How can we discourage Cliff from seeing her? How can we let our son know that if this woman were thinking of his best interests, she would leave him alone?

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your son is over 21, and there is nothing you can do. Any suggestions from you concerning this woman would be viewed by your son as meddling. Further, and attempts on your part to "rescue" your son from her would only drive them closer together. The word from here is cool it, Mother.

DEAR ABBY: Since I am a pastor with 43 years experience, I'd like to offer this suggestion to the young, inexperienced minister who didn't know how to handle a very bold married woman in his congregation who had designs on him:

Whenever I noticed a romantic twinkle in the eye of a woman in my congregation, I always checked to make sure it wasn't caused by a reflection from the gleam in my own.

The Rev. Walter Cowen

Nanticoke, Pa.

DEAR REVEREND: Beautiful! Many a young, inexperienced pastor would do well to take a page out of your diary.

DEAR ABBY: I have touchy problem. A friend of mine has four children. One is married, two are away at college and one is in an institution. (I understand he was severely brain-damaged at birth and will probably live out his years in that institution.)

When I talk with my friend, would I be out of line to ask how the child in the institution is? I always ask about the others.

TOUCHY PROBLEM

DEAR TOUCHY: If your friend never mentions the child who is institutionalized, don't you mention him. And the same advice holds for friends who have a child in a correctional institution, or is living with someone. A good rule to follow is: Be kind. Don't bring up anything that might make a friend uncomfortable.

Today In History

Today is Friday, Dec. 6, the 340th day of 1974. There are 25 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, President Franklin Roosevelt made a personal appeal for peace to Emperor Hirohito of Japan. The Pearl Harbor attack came the next day.

On this date—
In 1847, Abraham Lincoln took his seat as a U.S. Representative from Illinois.

In 1889, the President of the Civil War Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, died.

In 1917, some 1,600 persons were killed in a collision between a Belgian ammunition ship and a French ammunition ship at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

In 1918, Allied troops occupied Cologne, Germany in the First World War.

In 1943, during World War II, the Soviets were informed that Dwight Eisenhower had been picked to command the Allied invasion of Europe.

In 1959, a death toll of more than 300 was reported after the bursting of a dam and a flood at the French Riviera town of Frejus.

Ten years ago: British Prime Minister Harold Wilson was in Washington for talks with President Lyndon Johnson on Allied nuclear defense.

Five years ago: Israel exchanged 58 Egyptian prisoners for two Israeli pilots after complicated negotiations.

One year ago: Gerald Ford was sworn in as the 40th American Vice President.

Today's birthdays: Former football coach Lou Little is 81.

Thought for today: You take all the experience and judgment of men over 50 out of the world, and there wouldn't be enough left to run it — Henry Ford, 1863-1947.

Soviet religious repression fought

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A Marxist and atheist philosopher, Vaclovas Sevrukas, recently allowed to leave the Soviet Union, is on a prolonged and debilitating hunger strike here in protest against religious oppression in his homeland.

Although he himself rejects religious belief, he says "human faith demands freedom for all," including those who believe in God. "But under Soviet rule, you cannot have real human faith." Sevrukas, 34, 5 feet 8, weighed 178 when he started his fast in Rome, Italy, 23 days ago, surviving only on water. He has lost 32 pounds and now is down to a thin, weakened 146.

He plans to continue his fast until the end of December, although at the insistence of a doctor, he now has started taking some citrus juice, and friends have expressed anxiety about his declining condition.

A Lithuanian, who taught in the Academy of Science at Vilnius and at an engineering institute there, he holds degrees in literature and philosophy. He secured an exit visa last June to go to Israel, though the International Rescue Committee, but went to Rome instead.

There, in the midst of the World Food Conference, he started his hunger strike, protesting suppression of religious teaching in Lithuania and removal of religious personnel from churches.

He came to New York in mid-November, and is staying with Lithuanian friends in Jamaica, Queens.

"Yes, I am Marxist and atheist, but the Catholic Church in Lithuania is connected ideologically with Lithuanian nationalism and freedom of thought for all," he said through an interpreter.

The Rev. Blahoslav S. Hruby, editor of Religion in Communist Dominated Areas, says documentation indicates more than 200 Christians presently are in Soviet detention, mostly for defying laws against conducting religious classes.

They include a leader of dissident Baptists, Georgi Vins, arrested last March and imprisoned in Kiev.

The Library of Congress, Washington D.C., containing more than 59 million items, is the world's largest library.

Church sets week events

James C. Hall, circuit supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses, will be making his semi-annual visit to the Washington C.H. congregation the week of Dec. 10-15.

The special week of activity will emphasize the growth to spiritual maturity as part of an advanced training program of Jehovah's Witnesses, according to the Rev. John E. Andrews, local minister.

The program will be held nightly at 7:30 p.m. in the local Kingdom Hall at 717 E. Paint St., centering around the theme, "God's Eternal Purpose Now Triumphing for Man's Good."

A highlight of the week will come at 9:30 a.m. Sunday when Hall will deliver the public discourse entitled, "Into the New Order Under Christ's Leadership."

The Witnesses will be calling on homes during the week as part of their regular field missionary work. The regular congregation meeting will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m., with a special Bible question period at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The public is invited to attend the meetings.

Revamped House totally different

WASHINGTON (AP) "It won't be the same House."

Democratic congressmen sounded this theme with exultation or foreboding as they recessed a historic caucus Thursday and headed for their party's miniconvention in Kansas City.

Liberals were in the saddle and 75 well-organized Democratic newcomers provided the decisive margins in key votes during four intensive days of change-making that have altered the face of the House, one of the most tradition-bound elements of U.S. government.

The thrust of the change is clear: more power to the caucus of all Democratic members and to the central party leadership under the speaker; less power to committee chairmen accustomed to acting like feudal barons; more opportunities for freshmen and junior members; and more openness in the conduct of legislative business.

Many of these elements were involved in the changes affecting the Ways and Means Committee.

The Democratic members of Ways and Means have been the party's Committee on Committees, with the function of nominating other members for committee posts.

The reform caucus shifted the Committee on Committee function to the Democratic Policy and Steering Committee, which is made up half of the leadership and its appointees, half of caucus-elected members.

The caucus enlarged Ways and Means and opened the way to possible liberal control and an infusion of junior members.

The speaker has recently had much influence in naming members of the Rules Committee, which guards the door through which legislation passes to the House.

The caucus moved farther toward making this key committee a direct arm of the leadership. The speaker, not the Committee on Committees, is to nominate Democrats for the majority posts. The caucus retains the last say.

During 56th annual meeting

Countians determine Farm Bureau policies

Four representatives of the Fayette County Farm Bureau were selected to attend the 56th annual Ohio Farm Bureau Federation meeting recently in Columbus to serve as delegates for determining state policies.

Richard Carson, Dick Davidson, Wayne Hidy and Robert Owens (Landmark representative) were elected by the county Farm Bureau organization to act as members of the 296-member delegation, which determined business and policy matters at the state level for the 61,000 Ohio Farm Bureau member families.

The delegates resolved Farm Bureau policy concerning land use planning, international trade, establishment of a grain reserve, school financing, property taxes and the environment, according to Richard Carson, president of the local organization.

DURING THE meeting, the Fayette County Farm Bureau was recognized for its accomplishments during 1973 and awarded in six areas of membership, marketing, women's activities, youth, information and public affairs. Members responsible for the accomplishments were Richard Carson, Norman Scheiring, Mrs. Wayne Hidy, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hobbs, Mrs. Marion Waddle and John Peterson.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz received the support of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation for his advocacy of "a rational food policy and forthright information to the consuming public."

Ohio Farm Bureau Federation president Leonard Schnell said Butz was correct in supporting unregulated American grain exports and in opposing establishment of a large national grain reserve. "Agriculture exports are the only things keeping America's balance of trade afloat, the only commodities consistently earning foreign exchange," he said. "And stored grain reserves have forced farmers to accept artificially low prices for 20 years."

Farm Bureau youth from Fayette, Auglaize, Fairfield and Wayne Counties competed for top honors in the Farm Bureau Federation's "Spotlight on Safety" competition in the arts and

The Fayette County safety skit, "Minibike Safety," demonstrated the proper way to operate minibikes. Participants were Steve Paisley, Cincy Davis, Maggie Camstra, Bret and Bart Taylor, Mike Sollars, Mary Wilson and advisors, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hobbs.

New Federal Land Bank office

Business news

Federal Land Bank sets formal opening Dec. 15

The new Federal Land Bank Association office at 402 E. Court St. has been completed at an estimated cost of $250,000 and is now preparing for an open house of its facilities Dec. 15.

According to Ron Ratliff, manager, the 3,000-square foot office building had been under construction since May 10 by the Great Oaks Construction Co., after the former office location at 420 E. Court St. became inadequate for expansions in office space, parking facilities, storage and personnel.

THE ONE-FLOOR structure has been constructed in the Williamsburg style design with a large 55 by 100 foot area for employee and customer parking. Included inside the office building are an executive office for Ratliff, a conference room for the board of directors, filing rooms, front reception area, three offices for Ratliff's assistants and a basement for storage of old aerial photos and soil maps.

The Federal Land Bank Association is a unique corporation in that it is entirely owned and operated by its member borrowers. There are 950 farmer-borrowers who use the land bank for long-term loans in Fayette, Clinton and Madison counties, all under the Washington C.H. land bank office.

The association, the largest lending institution in Fayette County, now has a volume of $44,000,000 outstanding, as compared to $17,000,000 eight years ago. It ranks first in volume of all national Land Bank Associations in the four-state district of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, Ratliff said.

In the four-state district, the 76 Federal Land Bank Associations include over 46,000 member borrowers with $1,300,000,000 outstanding.

Land bank loans must be secured by first mortgages on farm real estate, but loans are made for a variety of needs of the farm owners. Ratliff said the advantages to the farmers in using the Land Bank include a repayment period of up to 35 years as opposed to seven years with a Production Credit Association, and the large size of the loans that can be handled by the association. Most loans are repaid on annual installments in the same way many farmers receive their incomes.

The local Land Bank Association is managed by Ratliff who is directly responsible to and a board of directors, which are borrowers of the system. Five employees staff the local office.

Ratliff, 33, of Rt. 1, Greenfield, has been associated with the Federal Land Bank Association for 10 years, serving eight of those years as manager.

HE IS a graduate of Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky., with a bachelor of arts degree in industrial education and physical education, where he played football two years on an athletic scholarship after playing three years for Iowa State University.

Ratliff married his Frankfort High School sweetheart, Nancy Acton, and they now have three children, Lamar, 7, Mollie, 3 and Jill, 2.

Ratliff has been a member of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club's board of directors for three years, after being the youngest member ever taken into the club at the age of 24; is a member of the Mt. Pleasant Pisgah Church Board of Directors, the Ohio Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers, and the Buckskin Farm Bureau Council.

The open house is being planned for Dec. 15 from 2 until 4 p.m.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller has completed confirmation hearings and his nomination appears headed for certain congressional approval in the next two weeks.

His confirmation would complete a turnover from the Nixon-Agnew administration and leave the country for the first time with an unelected president and vice president.

Eastside sets holiday program

Eastside Elementary School will present a Christmas program at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Washington C. H. Middle School auditorium. Entitled "Everywhere... Christmas Tonight," the program will be presented by members of the first, second and third grade classes.

The show will feature traditional scenes of Christmas as it is celebrated in other parts of the world. Highlighting the program will be dancers in their colorful native dress and a brigade of "wooden soldiers."

Mrs. Wayne King will direct the program. Musical accompaniment will be provided by Mrs. Ralph Yerian and Miss Marcia Perry.

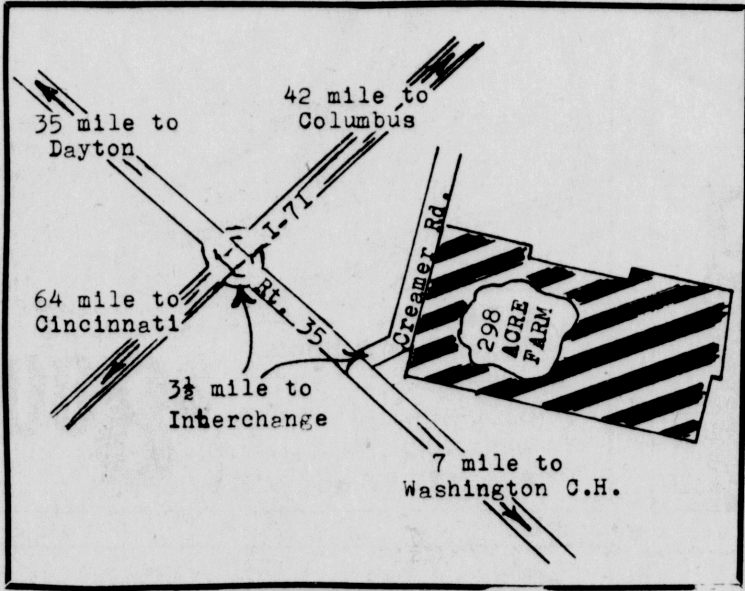

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited.

Heavy rain hits U.S. midsection

By The Associated Press
Rain spilled over the nation's mid-section from the Gulf Coast to the Great Lakes today and thunderstorms rumbled across parts of the South. Flash-flood watches were issued for sections of Texas and Arkansas. The National Weather Service said downpours up to 4 inches were possible in portions of those two states and northern Louisiana.

The rains tapered off to showers in areas north to the lower Great Lakes region. Light rain and snow fell in the central Rockies and west-central Plains. Dense fog blanketed parts of Oklahoma, South Dakota and Florida. Clear skies were the rule over most of the Far West, the Southeast, the Northeast and areas of the Midwest ahead of the advancing rain.

In the East, effects of last weekend's big snow persisted in Pennsylvania and Ohio. National Guardsmen from two units were activated to help the West Penn Power Co. repair fallen power lines in southwestern Pennsylvania. Up to 20,000 of the company's 125,000 customers remained without electricity late Thursday. Snow-clogged sidewalks in Akron, kept schools closed for a fifth day in that northern Ohio city. School officials assured students they would not have to make up the lost days next spring. Cold weather clung to the interior Northeast and parts of the South. Temperatures sank below zero in northern Maine overnight and readings in the 20s again extended well into the South. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 9 at Houlton, Maine, to 68 at McAllen, Tex.

Contingency plans still eyed by PUCO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's Public Utilities Commission wants to go ahead and map coal contingency plans despite the relief that came Thursday with settlement of the national coal miner's strike. John Ledingham, commission spokesman, conceded that the contract settlement took "some of the urgency" out of the situation. The settlement prompted a decision to defer a hearing on proposed voluntary conservation measures that were to have been taken by the state's electrical utilities had the strike continued. Representatives of the state's eight major electrical utilities did meet for the scheduled hearing Thursday to discuss ground rules that might be used when future shortages loom, Ledingham said. The hearing then recessed until a date to be announced later. "We're relieved by the settlement, but it didn't reduce our concern about future strikes and problems that could create shortages of coal," he said.

Last week, the commission announced a contingency plan to be followed by the utilities as their coal supplies dwindled in connection with a prolonged strike. It called for them to observe voluntary conservation when their supplies got down to 55 days, and set mandatory allocations and drastic actions, including intermittent power blackouts, when a utility's coal supply was reduced to 35 days.

Broiler chicken outlook better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broiler chicken producers, after losing heavily for many months because of soaring expenses, have no reason to crow yet but their situation may improve over the next six months or so, the Agriculture Department says.

But if some do begin making money again it will be because broiler production has been cut, at least until the crunch is over, and many operations have gone out of business.

Put another way, the department said Thursday in a broiler marketing report if producers had kept as many birds as they had earlier in 1974, they could expect prices during the second quarter of next year to improve very little.

As it looks now, however, broiler output next April, May and June will be about 15 per cent less than it was in the second quarter of this year. Consequently, if current projections are borne out, wholesale prices for dressed ready-to-eat broilers may average in the range of 44 to 46 cents a pound.

Officials said that if production had not been reduced the wholesale price next spring probably would be about 37 cents a pound, less than two cents more than the average of 35.3 in April-June this year, a level that caused severe financial losses.

A spokesman for the department's Agricultural Marketing Service said broiler prices only recently have matched costs of production. Although expenses are expected to continue increasing, the picture looks brighter through the first half of 1975 than it did last spring, he said.

Broiler prices depend not only on the supply of birds for market but on how much competing meat there is available for consumers.

One reason broiler prices slumped so badly last spring — down seven cents a pound from the second quarter of 1973—was because competing supplies of beef, pork and turkey were up sharply. Looking ahead to April-June next year, the report said pork output will be down 15 per cent from the second quarter of 1974 and that turkey production also will be less. Beef, however, is expected to be up 3 per cent from a year earlier.

C&SOE rate increase challenge filed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A challenge to a rate increase request by the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. was filed in Franklin County Common Pleas Court on Thursday by Raymond J. Leonard of Columbus. He also objects to a past increase.

Leonard, who said he would file a complaint with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, contends that cost adjustments set by the PUCO were not approved by the General Assembly or electricity customers.

Two Bucks make All-American

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Wood, Southern California's brilliant linebacker, was named to The Associated Press All-America college football team today for the third year in a row, while the Trojans, Oklahoma and Ohio State each had two players on the select squad.

The other repeaters were linebacker Rod Shoate of Oklahoma and defensive end Randy White of Maryland, winner of the Outland Trophy as the best lineman in the country. Shoate and White were named to the All-America team for the second time.

Wood was joined on the elite 1974 team by his Southern Cal teammate, running back Anthony Davis. The other representative from top-ranked Oklahoma is running back Joe Washington.

The third running back is Archie Griffin, Ohio State's Heisman Trophy winner. The other Ohio State player is offensive guard Steve Myers, who began the season as a center but switched positions when a broken hand made it impossible for him to snap the ball.

The All-American quarterback is Steve Bartkowski of California, who led the Golden Bears back to prominence and was the national passing leader. Bartkowski completed 182 of 325 passes for 2,580 yards and 12 touchdowns and was intercepted only seven times.

The receivers are big Dennie Cunningham, a 6-foot-5, 252-pound tight end from Clemson, and split end Pete Demmerle of Notre Dame.

Named to the interior line were tackles Craig Hertwig of Georgia, 6-8, 260, and Al Krevis of Boston College, 6-5, 265; guards Ken Huff of North Carolina, 6-4, 255, and Ohio State's Myers, 6-2, 243, and center Rik Bonness of Nebraska, the midget of the forward wall at 6-4, 221.

In addition to Wood, Shoate and White, the rest of the defensive unit consists of Alabama end Leroy Cook, tackles Doug English of Texas and Mike Hartenstine of Penn State, 275-pound middle guard Louie Kelcher of Southern Methodist, Auburn linebacker Ken Bernich and backs Dave Brown of Michigan, Pat Thomas of Texas A&M and John Provost of Holy Cross, the national leader in both interceptions and punt returns.

The AP team is selected on the basis of a player's college performance, not his pro potential.

Griffin, named the Heisman Trophy winner earlier in the week, led all running backs with 1,620 yards this season. He has rushed for more than 100 yards in 22 consecutive regular-season games — an all-time college record — plus the 1974 Rose Bowl.

East seeks third Shrine Bowl title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The East bids for its third straight victory over the West in the third annual All-Ohio Shrine Bowl football game Saturday in Ohio Stadium.

Kickoff time is 12:30 p.m. EST.

Both sides appear to have fine passing attacks for the contest that matches the outstanding seniors from Ohio's colleges this season.

Every school in the state is represented except bowl bound Ohio State and Miami. Their players are prohibited from appearing in the game, whose proceeds go to the Shriners' Cincinnati Burns Institute.

The East won a year ago 8-6 and Kent State Coach Don James was an assistant mentor on the victorious team.

"From the talent on both teams," said James, the head coach for the East this year, "it might be a higher scoring game than we've had."

James will start slick-passing Mike Campbell of the University of Cincinnati at quarterback.

Dave Maurer of Wittenberg, the West's head coach, will counter with Dayton's Tom Vosberg. The West also has the advantage of Toledo wide receiver John Ross, who led the nation in catches this season.

The 29-man teams have been working out all week on Ohio Stadium's artificial turf preparing for the game. They wound up two-day drills Thursday before visting with children today in the Cincinnati Burns Institute.

The rosters:

Grapplers to depend on youth

By LARRY WATTS

Record-Herald Sports Editor

"If the members of the team dedicate themselves to getting into the proper weight classes, this should be a good year for Miami Trace," predicted the Panthers' new wrestling coach Glen Jacobson.

Although Jacobson only has three seniors on the squad, the underclassmen possess a lot of experience. The performance of the Panthers this season will be resting mainly with the juniors and sophomores.

Seven letterman return this season. Of the seven lettermen, two are seniors, three are juniors and two are sophomores.

Heading the cast of returning lettermen is senior Don Dunton, who will be wrestling in the 175-pound class. Dunton carried a 10-6 record last season and was second in every tournament. Nine of his 10 victories were by pins and he holds the school record for the quickest pin in a match (14 seconds).

Junior Tom Eddlemon lettered as a freshman, when he carried a 17-6 record. Eddlemon is presently wrestling in the 126-pound class, but Jacobson is hoping to move him into the 119-pound class.

Kurt Klontz carried a 4-7-1 mark as a sophomore last season. He will be wrestling in the 138-pound weight class.

Junior Jay Crummy, who is in the 167-pound class, carried a 9-9 slate last season. He was second in the Barnesville Tournament, fourth at the Chillicothe Invitational and third in the South Central Ohio League meet.

Bruce Fennig, who is a sophomore, finished 5-11 last season. He is presently wrestling in the 119-pound class, but Jacobson would prefer to have him at 112.

Sophomore Kirt Stuckey was 5-7 in his frosh season. He will be wrestling in the 145-pound class.

Senior Mark Moore is the only other letterman on the team. After carrying a record of 0-2 last year, Moore will be wrestling in the 185-pound class this season.

Jacobson says his team is working toward the SCOL and sectional tournament this season. The Panthers have never won a tournament as they enter their fifth year in the wrestling program.

Five of the grapplers placed in the sectional last season. Klontz, Fennig and Stuckey each took third place. Dunton and Williams finished fourth.

"We think interest in wrestling is growing at Miami Trace," reflected Richard Hill, who served as head coach of the wrestling team last year. Because he is also serving as assistant athletic director and assistant football coach, Hill has stepped down as head coach of the grapplers.

"Young men under our program seem to be working a lot harder," Hill continued. "There is more team effort than individual effort. Everyone is helping everyone else out."

Varsity wrestlers are determined by matches among the team members. If a varsity wrestler should lose in competition, one of the reserves may challenge him for his position.

"Many people do not realize this type of wrestling is not like that they see on television," Jacobson pointed out. "This is a sport for athletes of all sizes."

According to Jacobson, Circleville and Wilmington should be the favorites in the SCOL meet. Both teams have a lot of veterans returning.

"We have been stressing physical conditioning and hope to build our way up for the SCOL and sectional tournaments," the Panther mentor explained. "Although we lost our first match to Springfield Northeastern, we have been extremely pleased with the progress made by the team this season."

Jacobson also said he would like to see more fan support at the matches. The Panthers next meet will be the Franklin Heights Invitational on Dec. 14. The first home match will be on Jan. 16 with Hillsboro.

Wolfpack enjoys 144-88 win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

For a team that didn't try very hard, North Carolina State REALLY underwhelmed Buffalo State Thursday night.

Playing just for "enjoyment," as Coach Norm Sloan called it, the country's top-ranked basketball team laughed all the way through a 144-88 blitz.

"We have not been relaxing enough in the first two games," said Sloan, whose team was never more relaxed than Thursday night.

David Thompson was the most relaxed of all, scoring a career-high 57 points that broke the individual scoring record for an Atlantic Coast Conference team. The extraordinary forward cracked the old mark of 56 set by South Carolina's John Roche in 1971.

"We played this one to enjoy it," noted Sloan, whose defending national champions won their first two games of the year with more of a struggle. "We were not worried about the point total. We felt very good about this game."

Thompson, last year's Player of the Year in college basketball, had started out this season in high style. He scored 33 and 42 points, his previous game high before Thursday night, in his first two games.

In the only other game involving a ranked team, the sixth-ranked Louisville Cardinals whipped the Dayton Flyers 76-65.

A crowd of 12,400 watched the Wolfpack use the fast break for most of the game as 5-foot-5 guard Monte Towe and guard Mo Rivers pressured Buffalo State into 31 turnovers. Thompson and fellow forwards Phil Spence and Tim Stoddard controlled the boards and hurled pinpoint court-length passes for lay-ins.

Four other N. C. State players scored in double figures. Stoddard and freshman Kenny Carr each scored 16 points, Spence added 15 and Rivers got 14.

Buffalo State's guard Al Richardson was the Bengals' leading scorer with 26 points. The Wolfpack's Thompson was the game's leading rebounder with 17, followed by Bengal Gregg Miller with 12. Buffalo State is now 2-1.

Led by the shooting of forward Allen Murphy and center Ricky Gallon, Louisville came from behind in the second half to defeat Dayton.

Louisville, 2-0, after trailing 36-33 at halftime, scored the first seven points after intermission to take the lead for good as Murphy started hitting from the key. Gallon scored 10 of his total 12 points in the second half.

Junior Bridgeman paced Louisville with 16 points and Murphy added 15. Johnny Davis of the Flyers, 1-1, had a game-high 17 points.

In other games, George Buccu scored 29 points and Bill Campion added 22 to lead Manhattan to an 86-74 victory over Fairfield. Steve Fields paced Miami of Ohio with 26 points as the Redskins roared back from a one-point halftime deficit to defeat the University of Cincinnati 68-63; freshman Mike Vicens led a balanced Holy Cross attack with 20 points as the Crusaders handed error-prone Dartmouth its fourth straight basketball loss 94-70, and Kansas State threw up a tight zone defense midway through the second half and pulled away for a 64-56 victory over Southern Methodist.

Americans take World Bowl, 22-21

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Raise the muskets and fire a two-gun salute for George Mira and World Football League. They've got it coming.

Both know full well how hopes for greatness can tarnish and fade. But, even if it was only a one-night stand, both could hold their heads a bit higher today.

Mira's 11-year search through forgotten teams in three professional leagues for the glory he knew as a collegiate finally brought him some satisfaction here Thursday when he expertly maneuvered the Birmingham

Americans to victory in the first World Bowl.

And the WFL, whose incredible financial problems could conceivably force it to fold without ever playing a second season, at least closed its first one on a brief note of respectability.

Historians might even say that Birmingham's 22-21 victory over the Florida Blazers, whose furious fourth-quarter comeback failed by the narrowest of margins, bodes good for the future.

This game drew a crowd of 32,376, which is 183 more than the old American Football League drew to its first championship game. The determining factor this time was Mira, the 11-year pro.

That is not to say that the WFL's $20 million debt and its other problems will disappear, because they obviously won't. And the president of this league acknowledges it is possible the WFL will fold by March.

But for three hours Thursday night football finally had center stage.

"I don't know what happens tomorrow," said Birmingham Coach Jake Gotta in a champagne-filled wild dressing room celebration. "Tonight is the greatest night in my life."

It almost wasn't. Mira had alternated four running backs, completed two key passes to tight end Bob Brown and run out of trouble several times himself as he methodically produced three long marches and a 22-0 lead.

But then Bob Davis, the Florida quarterback whose only two completions in the first 44 minutes were caught by the wrong team, found himself. And his receivers.

In a 90-second stretch he took his team 88 yards with four pass completions, the last one covering 39 yards and ending with Tommy Ream on in the end zone.

Panthers drop Wilmington

Behind Brent Knisley's 20 point effort and the team's red hot shooting, Miami Trace's freshman team raised its season record to 2-0 with a 52-40 victory over Wilmington on the Panthers' court, Thursday evening.

Miami Trace out-scored Wilmington 20-11 in the second period to break the game open. The Panthers connected on 19 of 33 field goal attempts for 58 per cent. From the foul line, the Panthers dropped in 14 of 23 free throws.

Center Bill Hanners also hit double figures with 11 points. Hanners was the top rebounder for the Panthers with eight.

With 18 points, Jay Harte was the only player to hit double figures for the Hurricane.

Miami Trace committed 15 turnovers during the contest. The Panthers also came up with 10 steals on defense.

Box score

MIAMI TRACE (52) — Riley (2-0-4); Glass (1-0-2); Hanners (4-3-11); Knisley (6-8-20); Eyre (1-0-2); Creamer (3-0-6); Downing (2-0-4); Raines (0-2-2); and Redman (0-1-1); Total (19-14-52).

WILMINGTON (40) — Elliott (1-1-3); Narde (2-0-4); Marshall (3-3-9); Harte (6-6-18); Martin (1-2-4); and Baldwin (1-0-2); Total (14-12-40).

Buffalo Sabres rip Washington Capitals

The British might have burned Washington in the War of 1812, but it's the "French Connection" line that's trampling the Capitals now.

"I'm glad I won't see the 'French Connection' for a while," Washington Capitals' goalie John Adams said Thursday after his National Hockey League team was blitzed by the Buffalo Sabres 9-2.

Bosses night, Yule light projects eyed by Jaycees

Preparations are being completed by the Washington C.H. Jaycees for the annual bosses night banquet and home Christmas light judging project.

Mike Bailo, chairman of the bosses night banquet, said the event will be held Jan. 22. The site of the banquet will probably be the Washington Country Club. The guest speaker will be Wendell Richardson, president of the Ohio Jaycees.

Chairmen for the individual award selections have been named. John Marcum, Jaycee chapter president, will serve as chairman of the boss of the year and local Jaycee awards; Jim Irons will head the distinguished service award; Ron Weade, physical fitness award; Fred Hoppes, outstanding young farmer; and Larry Cruea, outstanding young educator award.

Cruea, who serves as chairman of the Christmas light judging project, said the contest will be held Dec. 19.

Three Washington C.H. Jaycees have been appointed as new state directors. They are John Gault, Clem Edwards and Dave Loudner.

Mastodon molar discovered in attic

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Mike Walters rummaged through his neighbor's attic the other day and found a mastodon's molar.

"Before he (the neighbor) left he said I could look around," said the 12-year-old youth. "I found them (the tooth is in two pieces) on a chair in the attic and he said I could have them."

The Ohio Historical Society confirmed the find, which is estimated to be worth $20 to $50 as a science exhibit. Apparently the molar, coated with preservative, came from a mastodon that once lived in Ohio.

Snow still plagues Ohio

Snow lingering from the storms of early this week continues to plague Akron and some other sections of northern Ohio today.

Akron School Supt. Conrad Ott said schools there were being kept closed for the fifth straight day. The big problem, Ott said, was snow-clogged sidewalks.

"We have 49,000 kids who have to walk in the streets," Ott said. "The police department has asked us not to force the kids to walk in the streets, so we're just waiting for sidewalks to be cleared."

Ott said the youngsters will not have to make up the five days lost this week because the state allows five days each year to be lost to emergencies.

The snow has been blamed for between 15 and 20 deaths, mostly from snow shoveling as homeowners tried to dig out from under the wet, white blanket.

Tough energy plans topic for meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has set a meeting of top energy advisers for Dec. 14 at Camp David, Md., amid indications it may be getting ready to impose tough limits on gasoline consumption.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton expressed fears Thursday that voluntary measures to cut fuel consumption may not be enough and the government may have to take strong measures.

In an interview with broadcast and magazine reporters, he said that mandatory conservation measures that might be considered included gasoline rationing, a stiff new tax on gasoline and a quota limiting oil imports.

Meanwhile, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he will press for congressional passage this month of legislation giving the President standby authority to ration fuel and order increased domestic energy production.

Jackson warned that another oil embargo may result if hostilities are renewed in the Middle East. This, combined with declining U.S. oil production, "could push our economy to the brink of depression," he said in a statement inserted into the Congressional Record.

The Dec. 14 meeting of the Cabinet-level Energy Resources Council will draw up specific energy policies to recommend to Ford, an informed source said Thursday.

The council, made up of some 20 heads of federal departments and agencies chaired by Morton, received last month the Federal Energy Administration's "Project Independence" report, a massive study of energy issues.

Ford has said he hoped voluntary cooperation by the public and industry would cut oil consumption by one million barrels a day by the end of 1975. But Morton and other energy officials have begun warning that voluntary efforts may not be enough.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Wednesday that Ford is not satisfied with the progress of the voluntary program.

"I think it might be possible to limit imports at a certain level, tax fuel to a certain level and also allocate fuel where it is needed and probably have some form of consumer rationing without having to go all out for one system or another," Morton told the congressional Joint Economic Committee Thursday.

Although Ford has rejected proposals for a stiff new tax on gasoline, Morton and other top officials still consider it a potential option.

Morton also mentioned in the news briefing the possibility of taxing crude oil or energy in general, an Interior Department spokesman said.

The first attempted English settlement of America was on what is now Roanoke Island, N.C., in 1585.
